LOVE—$300,000

It's Worth That Much, Says Man In Damage Suit

COLUMBUS, March 2—Three hundred thousand dollars [illegible] the valuation which Floyd B. Da[illegible] of Columbus placed on the love [illegible] his wife.

Suit for damages to the amount had today been filed [illegible] the local man against Mrs. Zeta Gross his mother-in-law, who [illegible] avers, caused his wife to leave him. The mother-in-law is also blamed for the mother taking their child away from the father five days after she deserted him.

FOUR OHIOANS LOSE LIVES AS HOUSE BURNS

RESCUE EFFORTS FAIL

Man Attempts To Save Family at Goulds Station, Near Steubenville

STEUBENVILLE, March 2—Four persons were burned to death early today at Goulds Station, southwest of here when fire destroyed a residence.

Charles Crawford, a mill worker in the Carnegie Steel Co. plant at Mingo Junction, 21, his wife 22, a baby boy aged nine months and Mrs. William Prim, 43, mother of Mrs. Crawford were the victims.

The flames which had already gained great headway awakened William Prim, Steubenville barber, whose home it was. He attempted to drag his wife, an invalid, to a window but his progress was slow, finding it difficult to hold on to Mrs. Prim, so badly burned was her flesh.

Almost overcome by smoke Prim yelled to his son-in-law, Crawford, instructing him to bring the others to the window and toss them out to him. Prim then jumped from a second story window to the ground. No one ever appeared at that window. Crawford was evidently overcome by smoke before he could follow his father-in-law's advice.

When neighbors arrived at the scene, they found Prim frantically rushing around partially out of his mind. He had been seriously burned. He was taken to a hospital, attaches of which said he might die.

MEMORIAL DAY FAINT FATAL TO WAR VETERAN

SANDUSKY, March 2—Col. James E. Melville, 60, a Spanish American war veteran who served as Sandusky postmaster under President Roosevelt died at his home here today. He had been confined to his home most of the time since last Memorial day when he fell from exhaustion while carrying the flag in the Memorial day parade.

$1,080,658 TAX FUND IS PAID OUT IN COUNTY

Semi-Annual Distribution Is Made from Office of Auditor Thomas

CITY PAID $307,229

Local Schools Share Listed at $212,324, County Gets $184,847

Marion county townships, villages [illegible] and school districts shared in a $1,080,658.47 tax melon yesterday by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas.

The melon was the semi-annual tax distribution to the various taxing districts made February and August of each year. Apportionment of the shares to the various districts was completed Thursday by Miss Edith Libling, tax deputy in the auditor's office.

The sum distributed by the auditor yesterday represented the amount of taxes collected by County Treasurer James L. Messenger during the December collection. Included in the amount were $[illegible] representing delinquencies from other collections.

Distribution in Detail

There follows a list of purposes for which taxes were paid and amounts paid for each purpose:

Schools $[illegible]; state of Ohio $19,[illegible]; county $184,847; townships $48,0[illegible]; cities and villages $252,967.01; county special assessments for pikes and ditches $64,136.09; township and road district special assessments $2,219.65; municipal special assessments for paving, sewers and sidewalks $65,[illegible]

The city of Marion paying the largest part of the December tax also takes the largest slice out of the melon. The county auditor wrote a voucher for $307,229.8[illegible] which represents the city's share of the half year tax.

Shares of other municipalities follow:

Caledonia $2,120.[illegible]; Green Camp $910.[illegible]; LaRue $2,180.57; Morral $[illegible]; [illegible] $[illegible]; Prospect $1,6[illegible]; and Waldo $1,018.[illegible]

Total for Year

The total tax charge against the county treasurer for 1928 is $2,417,187.21. The December collection however represents only one half of this amount. The remainder will be collected in June.

The townships share in the distribution as follows:

Big Island $[illegible]; Bowling Green $2,228.10; Claridon $1,719.[illegible]; Grand $1,277.98; Grand Prairie $[illegible]; Green Camp $2,[illegible]; Marion $[illegible]; Montgomery $[illegible]; Pleasant $[illegible]; Prospect $[illegible]; Richland $[illegible]; Salt Rock $[illegible]; Scott $[illegible]; Tully $[illegible]; and Waldo $[illegible]

Marion city schools also took the [illegible]

COUNTY INHERITANCE TAX TOTALS $12,555

Three Estates in List of 19 Pay More Than $3,000 Each

Three estates of Marion residents which have been settled in probate court within the last six months paid inheritance taxes of more than $3,000 each according to records in the office of the county auditor, Earl E. Thomas.

The three largest estates and the taxes they paid are: Lena Bindley $[illegible]; Clayton [illegible] $[illegible]; and Elisha L. Durfee $3,144.2[illegible]

The semi-annual report of estates settled in probate court has just been completed by clerks in the office of the auditor. The report covers the period from Aug. 20, 1928 to Feb. 20, 1929. Nineteen estates settled during this period paid inheritance tax.

The total tax on inheritances during the six months period amounted [illegible] $12,555.57. Marion county's share of this amount was one-half or $6,[illegible]. Personal fees of the probate judge amounted to $41[illegible]. The county auditor's office received fees amounting to $376.9[illegible]. County treasurer's fees were $12[illegible]. Fees going to the auditor and the treasurer revert to the county. The state's share of the tax was $[illegible]

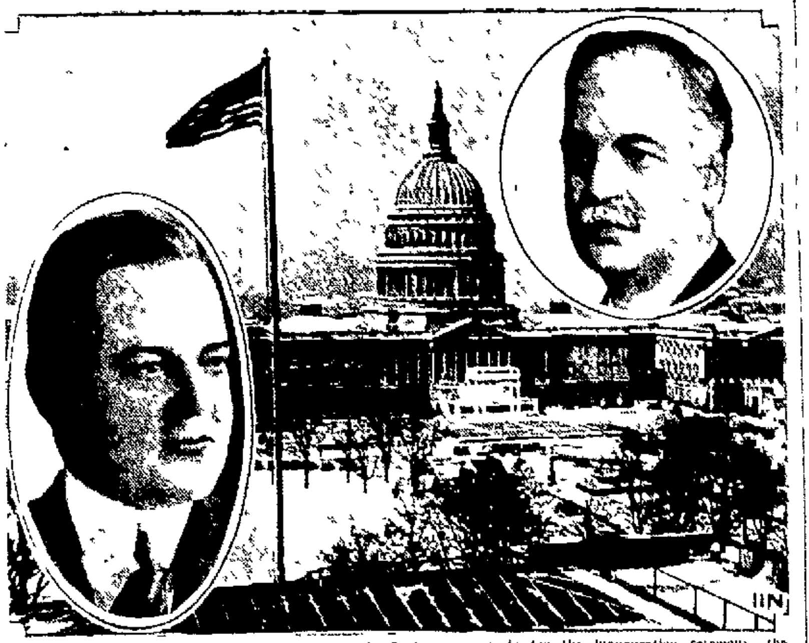
WASHINGTON AWAITS INAUGURAL



With nothing left to be done but polish up the final arrangements for the inauguration ceremony, the National Capital thrills with thoughts of the solemn occasion. Herbert Clark Hoover, left, and Charles Curtis, right, will be sworn into the respective offices of president and vice president of the United States Monday, using the same oath which was administered to George Washington.

DRASTIC JONES BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

Coolidge Attaches His Signature to $10,000 Fine Dry Measure

WASHINGTON, March 2—President Coolidge today signed the drastic Jones prohibition bill, thus making it a law.

Under its provisions violations of the Volstead act now become felonies and as such are punishable by prison sentences of five years and fines up to $10,000, applicable alike to first offenders or hardened old offenders.

Mere possession of liquor however does not come under the provision of the law. All other violations such as manufacture, sale and transportation of liquor [illegible]

In signing the measure which was strongly opposed by the wets in congress as well as some drys who thought the provisions too drastic, President Coolidge allowed it to become known that he believes the real purpose of the bill has been largely misinterpreted.

President Coolidge believes that the new law will serve its great purpose in permitting the deportation of alien bootleggers and other aliens who consistently and persistently violate the dry laws. So long as violations were classed as misdemeanors deportation was not possible. Under the law however any men convicted can be deported.

OHIO GRANGE HEAD IS COUNTY'S GUEST

W. F. Kirk Gives Address at Meeting in Grand Prairie Township

W. F. Kirk, master of the Ohio State Grange, was present at the second bi-monthly meeting of Pomona grange, this year held in the Grand Prairie school building today. This was the first visit of Mr. Kirk to this county since his election.

Bethlehem, Progressive, Mt. Olive, Bowling Green, Montgomery, Grand Prairie and Whetstone Granges were represented in the more than 150 in attendance.

A business session opened at 10:30 o'clock and reports of the various granges were heard at [illegible] business transacted. "Wild Goose Chase" for Stolen Chickens Leads to Rum Plant, Officers Report

Nick Sunsera Sought After Barrels of Mash Are Found Under Trap Door at Fairgound rd Home, Again Accused of Using Spoiled Fruit for Liquor Manufacture

Familiarity apparently does not breed contempt so far as Nick Sunsera, Fairground rd., is concerned. At least familiarity with Marion courts has not put fear of the law in the heart of the swarthy little Italian.

Last summer Nick was charged with making intoxicating liquor from spoiled fruit. A jail sentence resulted when James A. Deal, former sheriff, took him before the municipal court.

Nick's three sons, too, are well versed in court procedure here. His son Joe is doing a 15-year stretch in the Ohio penitentiary as a result of a shooting fray with deputy sheriffs here last fall. Steve, just 20, not more than a month ago entered the Mansfield reformatory to serve an indeterminate sentence for burglarizing the Cussins & Fearn store here. The third son has just been released from the county jail where he served a sentence on a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor.

In Again

Now Nick, the father, is in conflict with the law again.

Yesterday Fred Williams, deputy sheriff, called at Nick's home with a search warrant. The deputy was accompanied by Patrolman Bert Powell of the city police force.

The officers' chief mission was to look for about 20 chickens that had been stolen from the hen house of Lincoln Smith, Nick's neighbor. The officers proceeded to search the house and out buildings but no chickens, not even a feather, could be found.

Mrs. Sunsera watched the search but said nothing. Williams read the search warrant to her but she pleaded that she didn't understand. He questioned her about the chickens but apparently she didn't understand English. Then a younger member of the family put in his appearance.

"Where did the chickens go?" the officer asked the boy.

"I didn't," came back the answer.

Again the question was asked and promptly came the answer, "I didn't." That was his story and he was sticking to it.

By this time the trip began to look to the officers like a "wild goose chase" after chickens. Williams concluded to take one last look around the premises.

A closet in a downstairs bedroom was examined. The light was dim so Williams struck a match. Back in

MURDERS CROWDING COURTS AT CANTON

Two First and Two Second Degree Indictments Returned by Jury

CANTON, March 2—Stark county courts today were confronted by the heaviest homicide docket in years following a report by the county grand jury late yesterday.

Two first degree murder indictments, two second degree indictments and one manslaughter indictment were returned by the grand jury while three other homicide cases were ignored and one case was held for further investigation.

George Todoroff, who admits killing Helen Burkhardt by slashing her throat after she refused to marry him, and Peter Musso who confesses slaying Merton or Miller [illegible] the latter played practical jokes on him face first degree murder charges. Arthur Peterson, charged with stabbing his wife, Leslie, to death in a Massillon hotel and Charles Engles, alleged to have shot and killed Dollie Young in Alliance, are held on second degree indictments.

William Lowe, charged with running down and killing Mary Prugger in an automobile, was indicted for manslaughter. William Murray, charged with inflicting fatal injuries on another man with a bludgeon, Mary Atkins, charged with stabbing her husband to death, and Lee Williams, who was alleged to have shot a prowler trying to enter his home, were released.

PATH CLEARED FOR LAST-MINUTE BILLS

Presidential Nominations Alone May Die as Congress Nears End

WASHINGTON, March 2—A half billion dollars in appropriation bills, a hundred other minor bills and hundreds of presidential appointments stood between the dying seventieth congress today and a peaceful adjournment at noon Monday.

The legislative pathway seemed clear of obstacles to final enactment of the appropriation bills with all filibusters silenced for the moment. Scores of other bills will be jammed through in the closing hours by unanimous consent.

The presidential nominations alone seemed to be sentenced to death by the side of congress.

An agreement upon a $3,227,911 compromise increase in prohibition enforcement funds apparently ended the controversy involving the $240,000,000 first and second deficiency appropriation bills. Progress was reported on the controversy halting the $280,000,000 interior appropriation bill. The $18,000,000 legislative appropriation bill will be slipped through Monday.

The prohibition compromise pleased everybody. The drys declared they had won a $3,227,911 increase in enforcement funds. The administration leaders, who fought the original Harris proposal of $24,000,000 increase, declared all but $200,000 of the compromise increase had been approved by the president and the budget. Both sides declared themselves satisfied.

DESPONDENT, LIFE TAKEN BY CHICAGO MUSICIAN

CHICAGO, March 2—Harrison Major Wild, one of Chicago's most celebrated musicians, is dead today, a victim of self destruction. He was 67 years old.

Mrs. Gertrude Wild, the widow, said her aged husband was despondent because approaching deafness threatened to deprive him of the music that was his life.

The Inauguration

of President-elect Herbert Hoover Monday will be one of the big news events of the year. Every man, woman and child is interested in the ceremonies surrounding the induction of a new chief executive of the United States.

Your Star will have complete coverage on the inauguration. Every important detail of this great event will be covered by staff writers of The Star.

George Holmes, whose thorough stories are known to thousands of Star readers, will tell of the actual inauguration of Hoover. Another writer will describe the inauguration of Vice President-elect Curtis. Still another will be close to President Coolidge as he performs his last acts as executive. A pen picture of the parade from the White House along historic Pennsylvania av. to the capitol will be given by another correspondent.

Then, too, there will be the inaugural address of Herbert Hoover and the announcement of his complete cabinet. All of these things will be found in Monday's editions of

THE MARION STAR

CABINET OF HOOVER IS COMPLETED

President-Elect Names Robert P. Lamont Secretary of Commerce

IS STEEL MAGNATE

Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri Gets Agricultural Post

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 2—The cabinet of President-elect Hoover was completed today with the selection of Robert Patterson Lamont of Chicago to be secretary of commerce.

With this appointment the complete Hoover cabinet now stands as follows:

Secretary of state—Henry L. Stimson of New York.
Secretary of the treasury—Andrew W. Mellon of Pennsylvania.
Attorney general—William D. Mitchell of Minnesota.
Secretary of war—James W. Good of Iowa.
Secretary of the navy—Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts.
Secretary of the interior—Ray Lyman Wilbur of California.
Postmaster general — Walter Brown of Ohio.
Secretary of agriculture — Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri.
Secretary of commerce—Robert Patterson Lamont of Illinois.
Secretary of labor—James J. Davis of Pennsylvania.

The appointment of the Chicagoan was the second of the surprises forecast in the completion of the Hoover cabinet, the other being the designation of former Gov. Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri to be secretary of agriculture.

The Lamont appointment was even more of a surprise than the Hyde appointment however, for his name has never been mentioned in connection with a cabinet post.

Prominent In Business

Lamont is president of the American Steel Foundries Co. and has long been a conspicuous figure in the business and industrial life of Chicago.

The Missourian had not figured prominently in the cabinet speculation at all chiefly because he was of that wing of the party that favored the nomination of Frank O. Lowden at Kansas City last June. The invitation to him to become a member of the Hoover administration and his acceptance thus gives recognition to that faction which few had anticipated.

Scores of Names Up

Fully a score of names were considered at one time or another for the agricultural post which under the Hoover administration assumes an importance not ordinarily attached to it.

The special session of the new congress to be called on April 10 is to deal primarily with but two matters, farm relief and tariff revision. Whatever form of farm relief congress prescribes its administration will be in the hands of Governor Hyde. Hence

SPECTACLE ON MONDAY WILL BE BRILLIANT

Sixty Airplanes To Take Part in Memorable Hoover Parade

WASHINGTON, March 2—Plans were completed today for the inaugural parade which the capital will offer as its tribute to the incoming executive.

It promises to be a memorable spectacle and one not approached or attempted since that which President Taft reviewed on that blizzardly March 4, 1909, the memory of which makes shivers run down the spine and invokes prayers that next Monday will not see the like.

For the first time in the history there will be a monster parade in the air accompanying the thousands marching soldiers and civilian organizations through Pennsylvania av. to be reviewed by Herbert Hoover, the new chief executive.

60 Planes in Air

Sixty airplanes representing all branches of the nation's armed forces, the navy's giant Leviathan of the air, the Los Angeles, and two army blimps, will compose the aerial fleet. Planes from Mitchel Field, N. Y., Langley Field, Va., and Bolling Field here will turn out their best fliers for the event.

The ground parade of giant proportions will be led by Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the army, who only recently received his four stars. It will consist of two grand divisions, the military and civilian. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, will be grand marshal of the civilian division.

Twenty-seven governors with their staffs will have the places of honor in the civilian section. Some of the states will be represented in the military division by crack regiments of their respective national guards.

Troops in Parade

Regular troops from all nearby military posts and the District of Columbia national guard will make up the burden of the military feature.

The new president will review the parade from the glass-enclosed stand directly in front of his home for the next four years.

Governors will come from Delaware, Pennsylvania, Georgia, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, South Carolina, New Hampshire, Virginia, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Vermont, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Mississippi, Texas, Illinois, Alabama, Maine, Missouri, Michigan, Florida, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Wyoming and New Mexico.

COOLIDGE GREETS CROWD OF CALLERS

President Winds Up Details on His Final Working Day

WASHINGTON, March 2—When President Coolidge leaves his desk on the morning of March 4 it will be as clean as a hound's tooth.

Calvin Coolidge, probably the most methodical president who has ever held the reins over the American people, came to his office early today, looked over his mail, read the newspapers and embarked on the final working day of his administration.

Numerous callers were on the list and one of the largest hand-shaking crowds that has appeared in some weeks engaged the president's attention during the morning hours. When he was not greeting officials who wanted to say goodbye, the president was busily engaged in signing various state papers.

WEATHER OUTLOOK

Fair Early in Week, Rain or Snow in Second Half

CHICAGO, March 2—Weather outlook for the period of March 4-9, 1929.

Region of the Great Lakes. Mostly fair first part of week, preceded by precipitation in eastern portion, and some rain or snow over entire area in second half, temperature for most part near seasonal normal first part and followed by colder by middle of week.

Ohio Valley. Generally fair over west portion and probably rain in eastern Tennessee and rain or snow flurries in the upper Ohio Valley Monday. Rain probably Wednesday or Thursday. Otherwise generally fair. Much colder Monday, rising temperature the middle of the week and colder about Friday.

PROVIDES AID FOR PAROLED PRISONERS

Cincinnatian Places $5,000 at Disposition of Warden P. E. Thomas

COLUMBUS, March 2—A fund of $5,000 to provide loans to paroled prisoners from the Ohio State penitentiary, believed to establish a precedent in the United States, was announced today by Warden P. E. Thomas of the state institution here.

Dr. Phillip Conner, Cincinnati, was the donor of the fund, the warden said.

The money will be loaned to prisoners who have just been paroled from the institution, he declared, to help them reestablish themselves in the outside world.

Warden Thomas stated that to his knowledge the "prison loan fund" is the first of its kind in the United States.

PERSECUTION!

That's Buckley's Answer to Possible Legislative Probe

COLUMBUS, March 2—"Personal persecution." With this pithy, succinct phrase, Bert B. Buckley, ex-state treasurer, disbarred attorney, and convicted would-be briber, today summed up the reasons which he thought, prompted the possible legislative probe into his actions as a public office holder.

Buckley's case which for a time literally rocked the political serenity of the Buckeye state, flared up anew when Rep. Frank Cave, Mansfield, introduced a resolution in the lower house of the Ohio legislature asking for an appropriation of $10,000 for an investigation of reports circulating about the capital today. It may be used as a battle cry in the next state campaign, it was pointed out.

Inauguration of Hoover To Follow Precedents Set Through 140 Years

Tradition Built Up Laboriously Through 140 Years of Government

WASHINGTON, Mch. 2—Presidential inaugurations are governed largely by tradition and precedent, somewhat laboriously built up through the 140 years there has been an American government.

Occasionally there is some break in the proceedings which becomes a high light in history—as when dour old John Adams hurriedly left the capital early in the morning of March 4, 1801, so that he would not have to have anything to do with the inauguration of the successor, Thomas Jefferson, whom he heartily disliked—but, by and large, inaugurations follow pretty much in the pathway beaten by precedent.

The traditional ceremony really begins at 10 a. m., although arrangements have been in the making for weeks beforehand.

Prepares Lunch

At 10 a. m., however, the retiring First Lady is supposed to have the last of her personal belongings and those of her husband, out of the executive mansion, and to have arranged with the White House chef for the preparation of a buffet luncheon for as many guests as the incoming First Lady has indicated she will have.

This is really the final official act of the retiring First Lady. It is a duty as well as a courtesy—the duty of one good housewife to another, and dates far back in American history.

Thereafter the procedure and chronology of the quadrennial show is as follows:

10:45 a. m.—The incoming president and wife arrive at the White House. The vice president elect and the vice president are also supposed to foregather with their wives there at this hour. Sometimes the vice president is unable to be present because of his duties at the Capitol.

11 a. m.—Four automobiles leave the White House and proceed down Pennsylvania av. to the capitol. In the first car are the president, the president-elect, and the chairman of the senate rules committee. This year, Senator George H. Moses, republican of New Hampshire, the ranking members, will be the companion of the incoming and outgoing presidents because Senator Curtis is chairman of the rules committee.

In the Parade

In the second car are the wives of the president and president-elect with a White House military aide.

In the third car are the vice president, the vice president-elect, and the chairman of the House Rules Committee, in this case, Rep. Bert Snell, republican, of New York.

In the fourth car, are the wives of the vice president and vice president-elect, also with an aide. As Senator Curtis is a widower, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, his half-sister, will ride in the fourth car, she having been designated as his official hostess.

Upon arrival at the capitol, the president and the president-elect are escorted to the president's room, just off the senate foyer. There the president signs or vetoes last minute bills, for congress is in session right up to the stroke of noon.

While the president is engaged in this task there isn't much for the president-elect to do but to try to appear interested, and keep from getting nervous over the noise from the vast throng outside.

12 Noon: The old government automatically dies, and for perhaps half an hour there isn't any president or congress in existence.

Promptly on the stroke of noon, the vice president bangs his gavel and announces the sine die adjournment.

Then when all the foreign diplomats, supreme court justices, cabinet members, et cetera, are seated in the senate chamber, the president and his successor are escorted into the chamber and take seats.

Oath Administered

The oath of office is then administered to the new vice president and he makes his inaugural speech, usually brief.

Then the president and the soon to be sworn new president retire to the president's room again alone. They say their farewells if any, and as soon as the stage is set out front the new president walks out, takes the oath and delivers his inaugural speech.

Ceremony Really Begins at 10 a. m. on Monday of Inaugural Ceremonies.

Then comes the parade back to the White House.

The retiring president rarely goes out to see his successor sworn or to hear the speech.

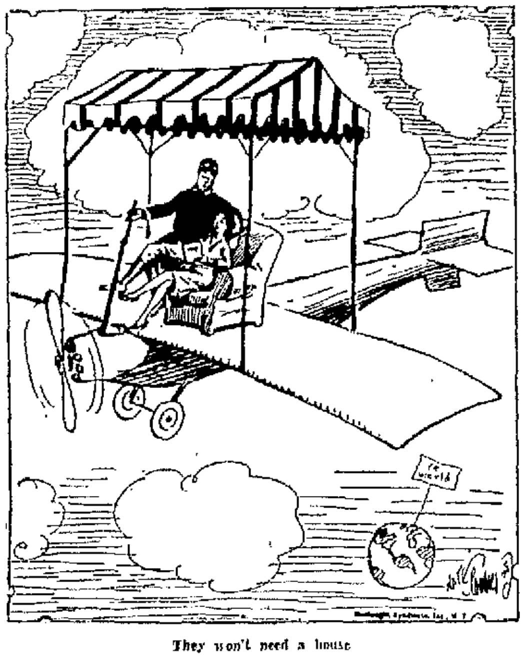
As soon as his successor leaves the president's room the out-going executive is escorted out a side entrance and is free to do anything he chooses. He is a private citizen again.

Mr. Coolidge plans to catch a train immediately for Northampton, Mass., his old home. Most retiring presidents do catch trains.

Cal Removing "Loot"

Will Says Coolidge Entered White House with One "Valise," but Takes Four Trucks To Remove Possessions; Like To Run Lindy

By WILL ROGERS



They won't need a house

WELL, all I know is just what I read in the papers. In Washington things are kinder drawing to a close. Mr. Coolidge has been for weeks packing up his "Chaps" and spurs and Indian headdresses and sending 'em all up to Northampton. I never saw a man accumulate as much stuff as he seems to have. I thought Lindbergh accumulated quite a lot of loot, but I saw a picture the other day of Four big Government Trucks loaded plum full headed for Northampton. Calvin come in there with nothing but one "Valise" and a speech on "economy."

But nobody begrudges him what he has been able to save up during these years, and when he gets up there in that Town there aint much to look at, only what you bring with you. Smith College is there. Its an awful common name but a mighty nice College. Then out in the brush somewhere is Amherst, his old College. I was up there a year or two ago and lectured to Smith on "the advantages of a successful marriage," and Annie Morrow who was there then, profited by my advice and grabbed our Boy Lindbergh. Wasent that a fine match! You know we all felt like we ought to be the one to kinder pick out the Girl. All of us just got enough old woman in us to want to kinder run things when it comes to him. We used to couldent understand England's feelings toward their Prince of Wales till we got ahold of Lindy, now we are like an old Hen with one Chicken, we go round watching him and "clucking" at everything he does.

Picks Good One

Well, as usual, he did a great job. That's a fine girl, and a great family. No fuss, no frills. Rich but you don't know it. Mrs. Morrow is a fine levelheaded down-to-earth practical woman, and she has brought her children up the same way.

I kinder have an idea they are going to get married up here at the home over in Jersey. Course they may get married down there, but I think it will be up here along about June. Course they don't have to worry about a home. All he will have to do is put another seat in the plane. I look for em to fly to Tokio, or Pekin, or somewhere on their honeymoon.

Well, now let's see, that takes care of Lindy and Annie and Calvin in this week's news. Course that brings us to Herbert. Now Herbert is sorter like Calvin, he is kinder hard to figure out. Course he will be going in now in a couple of days. But we don't know if he is going to have a Cabinet or not? Been a lot of talk lately about getting Borah in there somewhere.

This Prohibition

Now if he takes that Attorney General job and they attach Prohibition enforcement onto it, he just aint as smart as we have always figured him. Mellon had it over in his outfit and the only way he got away with it was just to act like it wasent over there. You see they dont know what department it belongs too. They could put it over in the Post Office Department, for a lot of it is handled through the mails. They could put it under the Secretary of war for it has caused the nearest thing to war that we have had in 10 years. Could put it in the Navy for most of what we make is shipped out by boat. Secretary of the Interior could handle it, as in the "Interior" is where it eventually goes.

Department of Commerce is really where it belongs. For if anything ever come under the heading of Commerce why Prohibition is it.

Department of Agriculture would be a legitimate place for it. It's made out of corn. And labor. It could appropriately come under that, for there is more people engaged in one way or another in it than there is on farms or on railroads.

But each man ahead of these various departments is hoping and praying that he don't draw it. It looks like Justice will get it.

Won't Take Job

Now what Justice can do with it is another thing. Now I think Borah is too smart to figure he can do anything with it so he won't take the job. You take a man that is running the Senate and he would be foolish to want to miss all those arguments. How could he ever have debated with Jim Reed if he had been Attorney General? You see the Senate is a Show while this other is just a necessity. Now Jim Reed is getting out, but I believe if he had it to do over again he wouldent do it. You see he got out away last summer when he thought the Party might do something better by him. Well he ought to have known about what a Party will do in the way of paying debts. You just as well be owed by France as a political party. Jim could have stayed in the Senate there for life and had a lot of fun. I sure hate to see him get out of there for he is a great fellow and a good friend of mine. I look for him to come back at the next election. His topic will be livelier than ever in four more years, and as for his age, he will be good at 75.

The trouble with Senators is the ones that ought to get out dont. Well we just got to sit and see what Hoover does for us. We are going to be awful disappointed if he dont fix everything so none of us will have to work. If he don't do that he will be a terrible disappointment.

AUNT ETHELINDA is telling Rosalie all about the gaiters and leggings they wore when she was young. And how buttons really meant something in those days. She is inclined to sniff at Rosalie's gaiter stockings with their rows of buttons down the front which are merely decorative and forget how long it took to button the heavy things they wore then. Rosalie's fine wool jersey gaiter stockings are just as warm as can be and not a bit heavy looking.

Services Appreciated

GIVEN with heartfelt admiration and gratitude was the large bouquet of roses presented Miss Lucile Foreman, dramatic coach at Harding High school, by the cast of "Three Wise Fools" at the last performance given under DeMolay auspices Wednesday night. There is no more admired and appreciated woman in the city by the boys and girls she knows than Miss Foreman. She directed the DeMolay play, the fourth given by the Marion chapter.

Miss Mildred Crow, who did a great deal toward the play in coaching individuals in lines, criticizing and furnishing "props", also received a token of appreciation in a bouquet of roses.

Miss Violet Doll and Miss Lenore Bondley, girls in the play, were presented corsages of sweet peas from the boys.

Although the women mentioned could have rested on the laurels of public opinion regarding their play, presentation of the flowers added a heartier touch to the weeks of work and final success.

Y. W. C. A. Project

WILL Marion get a Y. W. C. A.? Does Marion need a Y. W. C. A.? Think about it folks and if the time ever comes when the question is definitely brought to the front for public opinion, be "on deck" with your honest opinion of the matter.

If reports prove true, the question will come to a head around the middle of March when two nationally known, public spirited women come to the city for the express purpose of bringing this project to a showdown.

Must women of the city continue to search for places to enjoy the other recreations which the athletic woman enjoys? Last winter Marion women enjoyed volley ball, calisthenics, bowling, etc., at the Y. M. C. A. The practice has died out this year. The Y this year is purely a man's Y.

Or, is the financial problem too heavy for the women to undertake?

The Marion public, business enterprises, industrial concerns, every one, will have an opportunity to express an opinion on the matter when it is brought up. It will pay all citizens to give a few minutes of real thought to the problem.

DIES IN IOWA

Erie J. Wheeler, Former Marion County Man, Succumbs at Age of 94

News of the death of Erie J. Wheeler, member of the family which lived in Marion county before Civil war times, has been received from Iowa by a nephew, Frank Hickman, of northeast of Waldo.

Mr. Wheeler died at the age of 94 years, the date of his birth being Feb. 4, 1835. He was a native of Ohio. He moved from Marion county to Iowa with other members of his family in 1863.

His death occurred at South English, Ia., and burial was made at Sigourney, Ia.

New equipment to be installed is expected soon, the local manager of the company stated today.

ASHES DROPPED

No Ballyhoo With This Press Agents' "Stunt"

NEW YORK, March 2—Here was a "stunt" that had in it all the elements press agents dream about.

From an airplane the ashes of Walter Kingsley, Ziegfeld publicity man, were scattered over Broadway yesterday afternoon, but this press agent story had had no "ballyhoo."

And so Broadway, laughing and indifferent, went carelessly about its business—never stopping even to gaze at the airplane.

Kingsley had given the best years of his life to helping make Broadway famous.

Just before he died a few days ago, he requested that his body be cremated, and his ashes scattered over the Broadway he loved.

The ashes whirled in a mad dance as they were caught in the gale created by the airplane and drifted downward.

A crowd watching a man demonstrate a reducing belt in a drugstore window quite blocked the sidewalk.

Sergeant Alvin C. York To Be in Marion

SUNDAY, MARCH 10

Star Auditorium

FOR THE BENEFIT AMERICAN LEGION BUILDING FUND—ADMISSION $1.00

TICKETS MAY BE OBTAINED AT BARTLETT'S DRUG STORE.

The Official Report

"Practically unassisted, he captured one hundred and thirty-two Germans, took about thirty-five machine guns and killed no less than twenty-five of the enemy."

The nature of the battle in which Sergeant York displayed such heroism, was that of a surprise attack upon the German second line trench, taking place from behind the machine-gun nest which was all ready to attack the American army at ten o'clock. By Sergeant York and his men getting through undiscovered past the front line trench at eight o'clock, surprising the German Major and his support troop, hundreds of American Boys were saved. When discovered, the German Major signaled the front line and immediately they turned their guns around and commenced firing, but with his men covering the prisoners York was picking off each gunner as he showed his head, and never missed a shot, all the time telling the German Major if he didn't order surrender and do it quick he would take his head next. Believing the whole American army in the rear the Major ordered surrender.

Prayers for Rain

A SERMONETTE

REV. H. L. ZACHMAN
Evangelist Calvary Evangelical Church
Text—1st Kings 18:42, 45.

ISRAEL had a sorrowful time, the windows of heaven had been closed for months. For three and one-half years no rain had fallen upon the thirsty land, and no dew had glistened in the morning sun. The trees were leafless and the flowers had ceased to bloom, but the time for help had come.

Elijah ascended the side of Carmel. He bowed his head between his knees and prayed to the God of Israel. Then he called to his servant who was watching the sky. "Is the rain coming?" he eagerly asked. The servant replied, "There is nothing." Six times the question is asked and six times the same reply is given. But when the question comes the seventh time the young man reports that far away in the overhanging sky appears a little cloud. "It is enough, the Lord has heard, the rain is coming!" Soon the sky became a frowning battlement and before Elijah reached the base of the mountain every tree on Carmel was wrestling with the storm.

There is drought in the land now. The spirituality of many churches is low, formality has crept in, Christian standards have been lowered, worldliness has been given a place. Some pulpits have lost the evangelistic note, others are robbed of their power by the invasion of rationalistic and semi-unitarian heresies. The forces of evil are aggressive, Sabbath destruction is on the increase, profanity is unblushing, there are a dozen forms of immorality, the life of the home and the church is threatened. We are facing a crisis; we need rain, we must have a revival of religion in the land, we must have it without delay.

Shall we fail in praying for a rain of righteousness and lost souls? Not if we pray as did Elijah. The pulpit needs fire, Sunday school teachers' meetings must be turned into revival meetings, family altars must be rebuilt, prayer meetings must again be ablaze, personal workers must seek their unsaved friends and loved ones, entertainments must be postponed, we must do the one thing—we must yield to the dominance and leadership of the Holy Spirit, we must go forth under the impulses of a consuming overmastering passion to save the lost.

Let us ask God to call upon us a burden of solicitude for a slumbering church and a lost world.

"Mercy drops round us are falling,
But for the showers we plead."

Let us all pray for a soaking rain from heaven

NEW INSTRUCTION SYSTEM LAUNCHED

Easter Preparatory Classes Conducted by Baptist Minister

A new idea in religious instruction for boys and girls of junior and intermediate years, is being carried out by the Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, in the Easter preparatory classes which he is conducting each Saturday morning until Easter Sunday.

The classes are open to any boy or girl in the city interested in this work, and the Rev. Mr. Wood has cordially invited parents or anyone in the city wishing to attend, to visit the classes. The class convenes at 9:30 Saturday morning and continues until 10:30 o'clock.

The lesson is outlined on a blackboard and given from the outline. The student takes notes on any part of the talk which proves of most interest and later transfers these notes to a permanent notebook. The notes also include Bible references, etc. At the end of the period of study, March 30, the notebooks will be turned in to the Rev. Mr. Wood for inspection, after which they will be returned to the student.

The Rev. Mr. Wood is assisted in teaching the classes by his daughter, Miss Laura Wood.

Rev. F. A. Twining to Open Pastorate Here Sunday

Will Begin Duties as Minister at Fite Memorial Church

REV. F. A. TWINING

The Rev. F. A. Twining, who is coming to this city Sunday to take up the pastorate of Fite Memorial Baptist church, has had a long experience in the ministry, including service in the pastorate at Green Camp.

The Rev. Mr. Twining received his training for the ministry in Oberlin, O., and has been an active preacher 25 years. He commenced his work in a country church in eastern Ohio at a salary of $400 a year, a worthwhile salary 25 years ago. For a short time he occupied the pulpit at Green Camp and from there went to Grand Ledge, Mich. During the World War he was pastor of Immanuel Baptist church in Detroit.

Membership during his pastorate in Coshocton more than doubled and a new church was erected. From the First Baptist church at Sandusky where he served for four years, the Rev. Mr. Twining went to Hillsboro, the pastorate which he resigned to accept appointment in Marion.

Week-Day Church School Program To Be Discussed at Meeting of Ministers

Rev. John A. Carriker, Forest Lawn Presbyterian Pastor, Prepares Paper on Subject To Be Taken Up at Session of Association Monday

A question that will be of interest not only to church officials and members of churches, but also to that part of the public not attending church but having children who go regularly to Sunday school and church, will be brought up for a round table discussion at the meeting of the Marion County Ministerial association Monday, at City Library. The question is "Week-day Religious Instruction."

The question involves phases of religious instruction and an outstanding topic in the churches and legislatures of the country—the Bible in the public schools.

Paper Prepared

The Rev. John A. Carriker, pastor of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church, and secretary-treasurer of the Ministerial association, has compiled a paper for presentation before the association Monday.

Below are some of the ideas which he will bring out in his talk:

"It has taken the American people nearly 100 years to awaken to the significance and results of their educational system. Our Constitution provides for the separation of church and state. The task of giving our boys and girls a complete education is therefore divided, and in the natural course of events, secular education has come to be regarded as primarily the task of the state, while religious education has come to be regarded as primarily the task of the home and church.

Both Branches Needed

"All right-minded people know that a well-rounded education must include both secular and religious training. The present status reveals a highly efficient system of secular education for practically all the children of the nation and a system of religious education of low efficiency reaching only a small proportion of the children of the nation.

"Schools of week-day religious are seeking to remedy this defect in our educational system for the children of the nation. It is a plan built upon the conclusion that a part of the child's educational time should rightfully be devoted to religious instruction and therefore secures the dismissal of boys and girls during public school hours to receive this instruction in the churches, public schools or other chosen places.

Getting Results

Some notable results have been attained. More than 1,000 cities, towns and communities are now carrying on this type of work. In 23 states public school pupils are being dismissed during school hours in order that they may receive this instruction. Whereas Sabbath school and other agencies for religious instruction have been able to reach only about 10 per cent of the boys and girls, the week-day school of religious instruction has proved that it can reach 100 per cent of the youth in many localities.

Nineteen states officially sanction the plan of giving public school credit for work done in Bible study outside the public school curriculum. The practice of giving credit for this work is followed in 10 other states without official sanction.

"It should be kept in mind that the week-day school of religious education is not a plan to put the Bible in the public school. It is a plan wherein the public school cooperates with religious agencies in carrying on a comprehensive program of education whereby pupils are offered secular and moral culture in public schools and religious and moral culture in the churches and other religious organizations."

EVANGELISTS TO BE HERE FOR SERVICES

Plans for Revival Announced by Central Christian Pastor

The Rev. George E. Groves, pastor of Central Christian church, has announced revival services to begin in the Easter season.

The Rev. Mr. Groves has secured the preaching services of the Rev. F. L. Day, well-known evangelist of Indianapolis. Victor Oakley, singing evangelist of Chicago, will lead in the song services. Both of these men have been eminently successful in their special work in the evangelistic field.

COMMUNION SERVICES TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Several churches here will hold communion services Sunday morning. The Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor of First United Brethren church has announced communion services for 10:15 a. m., following Sunday school services at 9 o'clock. The sacrament will be given at Trinity Baptist church during the regular church Sunday morning.

the far corner of the closet the floor boards appeared to have been cut out and then neatly replaced. The deputy investigated and found a cleverly concealed trap door opening into a hole about five feet deep [illegible] 10 [illegible] acre under the house.

Cracks in the foundation of the house let in a few faint beams of light. Williams took his lead through the trap door. An [illegible] hit [illegible] smell [illegible] struck his nostril. There was something in the black hole that shouldn't be there, the deputy concluded. Whatever was the source of the odor it wasn't chickens, the deputy knew.

Mrs Sanders produced a lantern at the request of the officers. The faint glow of the burning oil revealed a muddy hole half filled with water. Over in one corner [illegible] two barrels.

Then the fun began. Williams looked into the muddy hole. About three feet of water covered the bottom and the deputy had no boat. He looked at the trap door about 18 inches square and then at Officer Lowell. After 10 years on the police force the officer isn't as [illegible] and wiry as he once was so he was checked out.

Help with a pair of boots was called to the rescue of the officer. Two quarts from jars were filled from the contents of the barrel. And then 100 gallons of fruit mash were dumped into the slime and mud of the foul smelling hole.

Himes scored a bucket and Butz went in for Kelly. Bowers got a bucket and a [illegible] on [illegible] was missed by Himes. Ballenger missed two free throws.

Marysville which took a 17 to 16 overtime thriller from Lancaster St. Marys yesterday in the first round of play found the going somewhat smoother this morning as it walloped Monroe township by a 30 to 8 score.

Eight men [illegible] the slaughter for the Marysville five and all of them scored. Lenrgeudine guard led the attack with four field goals and [illegible] charity tosses. Hoffe was high for the losers with his total of four points made on two buckets. Marysville will play again at 8 o'clock tonight in the third round of the lower bracket.

Cardington champions of Morrow county who went out this morning's games by virtue of its victory over New Holland yesterday went down before the attack of the Upper Arlington cagers dropping a 26 to 11 battle. The Columbus quintet sank ten free throws and eight fielders while the fourth Morrow county champs could do was five goals from the field and four charity heaves.

Denman who has been all-Columbus guard for the past two years led the victors attack with one basket and six fouls. Burgraff forward was the only Cardington man to show anything. He scored three buckets and two fouls for eight points. Akron Cardington star was held to two free throws.

It is good to know that Charlie Chaplin has passed the crisis and is on the road to recovery. Artists are not so many in the movie world that the best of them can be spared.

The Erie is reported to be about to close a contract with the American Locomotive company for twenty large freight engines. The way the Erie has been handling freight in recent months, speed as well as volume being considered, it is going to have demand for them mighty soon.

The total know expenditures in behalf of the two major party candidates in 1928 were $16,686,115, according to the report of the United States senate presidential election expense investigating committee. It just seems next to impossible for any record to stand in this day and age, but here is one which should defy the assaults of the ages.

It's the easiest thing imaginable to guess the holder of the winning hand in the game for stock control being played by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Colonel Robert W. Stewart, provided you're careful to read the claims of only one side. As claimers, the lieutenants of the two leaders have campaign managers beaten to a frazzle.

Forty-five years ago striking coal miners set a mine under New Straitsville afire, and not only have the flames defied all efforts to extinguish them, but they have also been threatening the town, having burned through in places to the surface. An awful penalty to pay for the vicious impulse of a moment.

Under the leadership of that great patriot and upholder of the constitution, the Hon. Patton Harrison, of Mississippi, the senate nullificationists have succeeded in forcing the carrying-over of the matter of congressional reapportionment to the coming extra session of congress, at which time it must go through the house again, as well as the senate. It's hard to imagine anything which has manifested greater development in recent years than hypocrisy.

Captain Fried, of the America, has been presented the "Gold Medal for Valor" by the American bureau of shipping for rescuing the crews of the Antinoe and the Florida. How could a medal for valor be better bestowed? Why not a similar medal for all commanders who rescue crews under like circumstances? Even the most valorous appreciate recognition of their valor.

Real Thing in Efficiency.

The average pound of coal which in 1923 moved a ton of freight and the equipment to haul it 6.2 miles in 1928 moved the same load 7.9 miles. In other words, the railroads, in line with other economical practices which have marked their course in recent years, have been working for the conservation of fuel with the result that the hauling mileage of a pound of coal has steadily increased. In their freight service it went up to 6.7 miles in 1924, to 7.1 miles in 1925, to 7.3 miles in 1926 and 7.7 miles in 1927, with the 1928 showing stated.

The Railway Age, in its current issue, puts the saving in fuel another way, showing that a pound of coal in the railroad freight service produced in 1928 three per cent. more hauling power than in 1927, eight per cent. more than in 1926, eleven per cent. more than in 1925, eighteen per cent. more than in 1924 and twenty-seven per cent. more than in 1923.

The reader may better understand the saving in the freight service of the railroads when it is stated that, taking 1923 as a basis, it amounted to 6,315,000 tons in 1924, which was increased to 12,203,000 tons in 1925, to 14,958,000 tons in 1926, on up to 18,183,000 tons in 1927 and 20,534,000 tons in 1928. Thus the railroads of the land have effected a saving in coal in their freight service during the last five years of 72,000,000 tons, which would amount, at the average price of the coal used by them, to $193,000,000.

Very similar economy has marked the fuel consumption in the passenger service, the amount of coal necessary to move a passenger car a mile having been reduced from 18.1 pounds in 1923 to fifteen pounds last year. This saving has worked economy to the extent of 20,927,000 tons, or $55,711,000 in the passenger department, making a combined saving of $248,978,000 in the last five years in fuel alone.

Very frequently we have heard of big money being made through efficiency, but often there is nothing to show for it. Here, however, we have the real thing. The railroads offer a brand of efficiency which is understandable. Such practical efficiency is a welcome relief from the theoretical variety of which we hear so much with no corresponding array of results.

Army-Burdened Europe.

Although the Allied powers did not so intend, the peace treaty they forced on Germany at Versailles may work her economic salvation and enable her to attain a degree of prosperity which will be impossible of attainment by them, despite the fact that, by despoiling Germany of her colonial possessions, they emerged from the war richer than they entered it.

Under the terms of the treaty, Germany with a population of 62,315,782, is compelled to guard her hundreds of miles of open frontiers with an army limited to 100,000 men. Tanks and war planes are forbidden her, and she is not permitted to experiment with gas for war purposes. Austria, with 6,526,661 people, is permitted an army of 30,000 men and Hungary, with a population of 8,368,273, may maintain an army of 35,000 men. Like Germany, Austria and Hungary are permitted a limited number of machine guns and some heavy artillery, but again like Germany, are allowed no tanks or war planes. The result is that but eight per cent. of Germany's revenues is applied to armaments; only 3.6 per cent. of Austria's budget is thus expended, and Hungary applies eleven per cent. to her armament.

If these three nations are able to withstand the menace of communism and overcome such red onslaughts as they had to face toward the close of the World war, their limited expenditures for armaments should go far to enable them to emerge from the economic ills from which they now suffer.

Let us now turn to their immediate neighbors.

France, with a population of 40,617,360, is expending twenty-five per cent. of her revenues for armament. The peace-time strength of her army is 600,000 men, including 80,000 officers. With her reserves, her war strength is 3,500,000 men trained for battle. Her peace-time equipment includes 34,000 machine guns, 3,200 cannon, 2,500 tanks and thousands of war planes.

Poland goes still further, expending 33.6 per cent. of her entire budget on armament. Her 29,160,163 people maintain an army with a war strength of 1,000,000 men, and she has 220 war planes and 160 tanks.

The 40,518,666 people of Italy have an army of potential war strength of 3,500,000 men, and twenty-four per cent. of her total revenues go to maintain it and its equipment of heavy and light artillery, 750 war planes and 200 tanks.

Roumania, whose population is 17,393,117, devotes twenty per cent. of her revenues to maintain a standing army of 125,000, equipped with 4,500 machine guns, 1,100 pieces of artillery, ninety tanks and 200 war planes, while twenty-one per cent. of the revenues Jugo-Slavia exacts from her 12,017,323 inhabitants go the same way. Her standing army numbers 115,000 men, and its equipment includes 2,050 machine guns, 900 cannon and 350 war planes.

With her reserves, Czecho-Slovakia can turn out a thoroughly-trained standing army of 600,000 men, equipped with 500 war planes and sixty tanks. Seventeen per cent. of her revenues go to its maintenance. Her people number 13,613,172.

We do not include the expense percentage borne by the 43,226,300 people of Great Britain to maintain their standing army of 151,500 men, for the reason that the great burden of British expenditure is now, as it always has been, on her navy, which has easily twice the strength of any navy afloat, but her naval expenditures may well be considered in the light of British criticism of our present naval program.

Is it any wonder, in the face of the showing herein made, that Germany is emerging economically from the chaos which she was forced to face at the conclusion of the war and is making more progress, comparatively, in emerging from the economic morass in which she found herself at that time than any of the nations surrounding her, including Russia, which shrieks for disarmament and meanwhile expends $325,000,000 annually—twenty-two per cent. of her revenues—to maintain her standing army?

Incidentally, it will not be amiss to compare the expenditures of some of these nations which are crying out at the "military threat" of the United States, whose estimated population of 120,013,000 last year maintained a standing army of only 121,185 men.

A member of the Hoosier state senate charges that thirty-five of his forty-nine fellow members are "snifter hoisters." Candidly, the ratio is a bit high, but we admit that we haven't any data at hand with which to confound him, unless it be that his alleged wet percentage is easily twenty or thirty per cent. above the average.

Our sales to France dropped off $35,000,000 in 1928. At first glance we might take the decrease as a sort of a gentle hint on the part of the French that proposals looking to tariff raises may prove to be loaded with dynamite. The French are not the kind of people who do not look ahead if there's a chance of pulling down a [illegible] doing.

Statistics released from the federal census bureau and uttered by the union of Women's Christian Temperance union show that deaths from alcoholism in 1927 were forty [illegible] as many as they were in 1920, the total of 1927 being 1,372. That's a shocking showing, but even bad as it is, it shows alcohol to be a regular piker as a killer alongside the motor car. Why not an [illegible] amendment?

The lash is to be added to other penalties for trafficking in drugs up in Canada. Were the whipping post restored down here for prohibition law offenders it might prove more efficacious than [illegible] itable.

Food Must Supply Minerals.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Proper feeding is essential to good health. The term "proper feeding" includes several factors. First, of course, is proper food. But after you have a supply of good food, it must be well prepared and taken in correct amounts.

If foods, animal or vegetable, or both are placed in a furnace and burned, ashes will be left, just as ashes are left after burning wood or coal. The scientist uses this word in the singular, referring always to the indestructible remnant as the "ash."

Sometimes the ash is given another name, the "salts" of the food. As a matter of fact, the mineral elements in foods are usually found in combinations and not singly. The salts of fruits and vegetables are just as necessary to the welfare of the body as are the heat-producing and energy-producing foods.

The minerals most commonly found in the ash of vegetable and animal foods are phosphorus and potash. Not all foods carry these and other minerals in the same proportion.

See the importance of this statement? You can not get your full supply of all the required minerals without eating a variety of food. The particular elements the infant demands can be had from milk. But in adult life you must have the salts that other foods supply in larger and more appropriate quantities than milk does.

In the ash of the human body are found fifteen or sixteen different mineral substances. This means that a well-nourished body must have an unfailing supply of fifteen or sixteen minerals.

How do we get these salts? What are their sources?

It may be interesting to go a bit into detail in this discussion. For instance, what could you hope to have in the way of hair if you could not get sulphur? The mineral is an essential ingredient of hair and the hair could not grow or thrive without it.

Sulphur is found in combination with certain protein foods. It is in the gluten of wheat. Likewise, it is one of the ingredients of peas. Of course there are other sources, but these are examples.

Potash is essential to overcome acidity. Meat and potatoes, wheat and peas, contain it.

Soda and chlorine are found in animal flesh. Likewise the ordinary table salt supplies them. The vegetables have small amounts.

The green vegetables, particularly the leafy vegetables, carry iron. Spinach, oatmeal and potatoes contain iron. This is a mineral the blood must have if health is to be maintained.

Fortunately, some of the common foods have iron. Apples, beef and the yolks of eggs carry it.

Iodine is in the carrots. Lime is in the milk, cereals, eggs and vegetables.

The fruits and all the vegetables possess valuable mineral salts. You can not get on without these. Health depends on taking some of every salt.

Editorial Opinion.

THE CRAVING FOR BIGNESS.

The exaltation of the merely big no longer can be thrown up to the United States as a weakness peculiar to its people. Canada gives signs of the same megalomania. As soon as a $2,000,000,000 bank is announced in New York, Canadian editors rush to Whitaker's to prove that the new American institution is not "the most formidable bank or the one most eagerly patronized," among world banking houses. The Toronto Globe points out that any one of four London banks has more deposits than New York's $2,000,000,000 bank! What it does not add is that they are four of the "big five," which, with their more than 7,000 branches and sub-branches, enjoy a monopoly of the national banking business to a degree that no single bank, under our system of independent banks, attempts to aspire to.

The Globe also notes with gratification that among the dozen largest banks in the world "Canada counts two; but it is more satisfactory to realize that, while banks in other parts of the world may merge and thereby present a more formidable front, stability and enterprise count, and in these respects Canadian banks stand among the foremost." The Globe strains facts in reaching for bigness and bestness. Canada has an excellent banking system, although it is more notable for strength than flexibility, but it is doubtful whether it can claim more stability than our own more democratic system has shown. A thousand little banks in this country must fail to equal the failure of one of the Canadian chartered banks, with its thousand branches; and since 1914 Canada has lost half its banks by absorption. The finance minister stated in parliament the other day that most of the mergers that have taken place since he took office were forced by the alternative of the weaker institution going to the wall.

Whatever the objections there may be to a dozen chartered banks doing the entire business of the dominion, Canadian banks have an excellent record of protecting both their stockholders and their depositors—a record in fact so excellent that it is surprising to see a Canadian newspaper attempting to gild it with a bigness reached through the implied disparagement of banks in other countries.—Detroit Free Press.

FOOLISH LEGISLATION.

The Ohio house of representatives, through its committee on highways, has shown an inclination to sidetrack the Ackerman bill as passed by the senate in favor of a house bill, the so-called Creighton bill, which also contemplates a state police force. If the bills were closely similar, there would be no serious objection to this action. But that is not the case, for the two bills are fundamentally different. The Ackerman bill, modeled after the best of state legislation over the country regarding state departments of public safety, makes wholesome provision for a unified division of law enforcement, under a single commissioner. It has been amended in various ways so as to satisfy the wishes of all important elements of the population of the state. It merits prompt passage and signature.

The Creighton bill, on the other hand, is a vicious project, as was pointed out in these columns unequivocally on January 17, immediately after its introduction in the house. The Creighton bill lacks the discriminating understanding in its text that looks to effective operation. The experience in every state and in every line of law enforcement has been that a board, especially an ex-officio board, can not possibly render effective service as an agency of the enforcement of law. For such purposes, the single-head type of administrative organization is infinitely preferable.

The Enquirer strongly urges that this unwise bill be abandoned in the house of representatives, and that the Ackerman bill as passed by the senate be considered on the floor of the house as the one measure, and the only one, entirely suited to the needs of the people of Ohio.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Odd and Interesting.

Electricity is finding increasing employment in the sterilization of water, the impurities being transformed into substances which further the process of sterilization, while the oxygen is turned into ozone.

Rome was surprised recently when it became known that an aged cardinal has asked for leave to retire, as it was the first instance in more than a century that such an event as the relinquishment of a "Red Hat" had occurred.

A family consisting of father, mother and nine small children were found living in London in one room, where a chest of drawers furnished the bedroom for the youngsters, the parents, at night time, putting the children into the drawers, which were arranged around the bed.

To determine whether whales have two wives is the chief purpose of a scientific expedition which has spent the past year in the Antarctic. The boject is neither flippant nor romantic, but sheer hard business. If it is found that the male whale has more than one female mate it obviously follows that it is more destructive to kill a male than a female, and steps could be taken to safeguard the males in the interest of the whaling industry.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, March 2.—The swiftest of Manhattan's [illegible] risers, it strikes me, are the amateur [illegible] who lead jazz orchestras. No one ever knew an orchestra leader outside of symphony conductors, in the old days. Today they are nationally celebrities.

Not one is exactly a great musician, but they do contrive a forceful [illegible] to forget them. The most successful have personality with a big punch and are so highly commercialized they operate a number of bands [illegible] with well-paid promoters.

There is, for instance, nothing of the long-haired [illegible] about Paul Whiteman. He is more the father of opulent [illegible], but when he mounts the rostrum there is something incredibly eloquent about his broad back and stamping foot. Paul is an [illegible].

Ben Bernie, bowing his fiddle like a fan, is not so much a symphonic marvel as the suave and polished wise-cracker. He has an amazing way of taking his audience into his confidence and holding himself up to ridicule. Then he confounds them with some euphonic braveness.

Vincent Lopez is a model of tailored elegance with lacquered black hair, long eyelashes and a boyishly shy manner. He conducts quietly, with only a jiggly movement of his right arm. He has a trick of apparently losing himself in a dreamy manner. And do the ladies love it! His mash mail is the answer, my dear!

Art Hickman conducts from his battery of drums—sitting down—and looks out over dancers to bestow a friendly smile on an acquaintance. He is the dean of the guild. Eddie Peabody interpolates baton-wielding by twanging a banjo. Paul Ash features a mop of wild red hair.

There are a dozen others with pronounced subtleties that score. With their various activities, including recording, they are paid astounding sums, far more than our president. And despite talk jazz is declining, they are now, as the song has it, on the crest of the wave.

There is a figure in the black and tan haunts of Harlem known as Choo-Choo with orange frizzed hair and a light sepia complexion. Even to regulars she is a mystery. She speaks with a Parisian accent, is the constant companion of an extremely black shick who wears a checkered suit and red tie. They visit the Black Belt faubourg in a limousine and have nothing to do with hoi polloi. And if she is featured in one of those colored revues next week, it makes a sucker of me again, as usual.

Broadway, too, has seasonal figures who come, create an air of mystery among night owls, and disappear like a magician's evanishment. A few weeks ago there was a gentleman who resembled an evil depraved Marquis from pages of an Oppenheim, with spade-shaped beard and red ribbon across his shirt front. He looked ripe for one of those international intrigues that send Scotland Yard off the deep end. He escorted an aged and slightly limping dowager, known as "The Comtesse," bedecked with diamonds and supported by a shepherd's crook like Lillian Russell used to carry in the Weberfield extravaganzas. After a few nights of wild spending, including $100 bill tips, they vanished.

Einstein's Latest.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The Einstein theory seems to possess for many readers the fatal attraction of the "mountain of adamant" in the Arabian Nights which drew out the nails from approaching ships and left them to fall to [illegible] in the offing. And many an adventurous excursionist on the seductive galleons that fly the pennant of "Einstein made easy" has found out that a mental ducking is the conclusion of the voyage.

The Einstein theory is built on mathematics and constructed of mathematics, and it exists in the mind, only as a mathematical theorem. It is not Einstein, but his amplifiers and would-be clarifiers who have made his theories appear to be the inventions of a mystificator, or the seriously intended commentaries of the bedlamite on the adventures of Alice in Wonderland. I do not see him writing any such nonsense as is sometimes set out to shine in the light of his fame.

He is, of course, aware of the facilities which his speculations offer for making paradoxes that will cause novices to stare and rub their eyes, but he doesn't offer any encouragement to that sort of Barnumism. In his own attempt to give the layman some idea of what the latest form of the theory means, he resorts to none of the vain expedients of those who hand out wooden nutmegs, but honestly tries to give the reader a fundamental conception which will, at least, suggest to any rational mind the nature of the problem on which he is working.

No man can play chess who has not first learned the rules and the moves of the game. So no man who is entirely ignorant of "higher mathematics"—ignorance which is no disgrace to those who have no use for such knowledge—should expect to follow the processes by which the Einstein theory has been built up. One who had never seen a chessboard might as well try to understand the complications of the "knight's move."

In his explanation of his latest study of the effects of relativity Einstein tries to lead the reader to a comprehension of what is meant by the "field." Students of electricity and magnetism currently make use of the term "field." It means for them the space surrounding a magnet, or an electric current, in which magnetic or electric phenomena take place. So a gravitation "field" is the space within which gravitative effects are felt. In a broad sense, space in general is a "field" wherein electric, magnetic and gravitative effects are all manifested.

The "ether theory" made it easy for everybody to understand how light could be conveyed in "waves" across space, because it represented space as filled everywhere with the ether. Similarly, it was easy to see that electricity could be conveyed by the same intangible medium. Maxwell showed that light could be simply explained as an electro-magnetic wave in the ether.

But gravitation, though in many ways obeying the same laws, could not be likened to electricity. It did not appear to consist of electro-magnetic waves. The gravitation "field" and the electro-magnetic "field," though they might occupy the same space, seemed to be independent of one another. What Einstein has set out to do is to show that in fact there is but one "field," the "space-time continuum," and this unitary field accounts at once for all three of the fundamental phenomena, electricity, magnetism and gravitation.

The ether theory is thrown overboard, but nevertheless, space is not conceived as mere emptiness. On the contrary, it is a continuum, having its peculiar "structure." On account of this structure of space the phenomena of both electricity and gravitation takes place necessarily and require no explanation by the action of supposition forces. Einstein may be right and he may be wrong—he himself admits that much more remains to be done—but what he is trying to do can never be explained by attempting to play "Hamlet" with Hamlet left out.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

The exchange of students, journalists, college teachers, among the nations is one of the most vital agencies for the preservation of peace. Rhodes scholarships in Oxford and the exchange of professors that goes on between Harvard and European universities, the practice of sending English reporters to work on American newspapers and vice versa, are all of more value than old-fashioned diplomacy. The most hopeful figures are the figures that tell of the thousands who go abroad each year for travel, observation and study. Steamboats are great peace bringers.

Speaking in a recent membership campaign James F. Barton, of the national staff of the American legion, said: "The American legion, the citizen soldiery of America, organized for the good of America, can look back upon its ten years of existence without shame and can look forward without fear."

These are worthy words and true. The American legion is an organized political power. It stands for citizenship rather than politics. Made up of men in the very best years of manhood, it furnishes a highly vitalized and glowing example to youth. Its traditions are honorable, its aims idealistic, its influence in American life highly satisfying.

Professor Anthony Blanks, University of California, reaches the big type by declaring in a speech to wit:

"Women will be the rulers of the next generation.

"Two-thirds of the great world leaders in the next few centuries will be women.

"The eternal struggle between the sexes is being won rapidly by women and a return to the matriarchial rule is inevitable."

He may be right. And yet—is Blanks a suggestive name for a man who fires such apparently hot shot?

Dinner Stories.

"Haven't you said the same things many times?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "So little attention was paid to them that the same old talk remains good as new."

"What a waste of money," protested her husband.

"Not at all. I gave the woman o[illegible] and she told me I would soon [illegible] $5,000. Wasn't that a bargain?"

"You never dance?"

"No, sir," answered Miss Cayenne. "I try to set a sedate example for [illegible]"

Four-year old Bobby was much interested in the story of David and Goliath as his mother read to him. When she was through, he asked:

"Mamma, where is David now?"

"In heaven, I suppose."

"Will I go to heaven when I die?"

"I hope so, dear."

"Mamma"—the little voice was very eager now—"do you s'pose when I get there David will let me hold his slingshot a little while?"

National Social Hygiene Lecturer To Be Heard by Societies Here Next Week

Mrs. Margaret Wells Wood To Discuss Vital Problems Before Club Women and Members of Parent-Teacher Association

Mrs. Margaret Wells Wood, of the American Social Hygiene association, will speak before several clubs and other women's organizations here Monday and Tuesday. A great problem in present day home life is character training and the problems of America's modern youth will be the foundation for her lectures, according to advance notices.

Monday she will talk before the Advance club at its meeting with Mrs. James W. McMurray, Windsor st., Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the City Library. Mrs. Wood will talk before the Parent-Teachers association. The Marion County Federation of Women's club will hear her Tuesday afternoon at Hotel Harding.

Association Program

The association which Mrs. Wood represents is a national organization interested and concerned with the problems of social hygiene. In addition to cooperating with governmental and voluntary agencies active throughout the country, it seeks to stimulate individuals and organizations in solving their social hygiene problems.

At present its major activities are directed toward bringing about the adaptation of the sex factor in human life to the growth, happiness and character of the individual and the good of society. Indirectly, it seeks to encourage all means which tend to build up healthy, happy and socially wholesome lives.

The remedial activities, one of the two main divisions of the field, aim to secure the most wholesome social environment by the elimination of all factors which tend to weaken or destroy the home and oppose the best development of the individual.

Educational Work

The constructive activities, the second of the two main divisions, are mainly educational. They are designed to foster such character education and training from child [illegible] shall develop correct att [illegible] standards and behavior [illegible] sex in its broadest sense.

Mrs. Wood has served 17 year teacher in colleges and a leader [illegible] eign and home work of the type she will lecture on here. S graduate of Mount Holyo where she majored in b mathematics, afterwards Bryn Mawr college in soci and industrial organization.

The VANGUARD

By Arnold Bennett

[illegible] planations [illegible] were taking [illegible] the purse [illegible] her youth [illegible] I came out [illegible] of my [illegible] and [illegible] them also [illegible] hundred pound [illegible] because [illegible] swindled [illegible] pay it and I [illegible] as long as I lived [illegible] I was wrong— [illegible]

[illegible] I'm swindled [illegible] and I'd gone into [illegible] and [illegible] on and pay it. He hates [illegible] I remember [illegible] I thought we [illegible] over a hotel bill [illegible] you know what I [illegible] robbed like this [illegible] he said, 'I pay [illegible]' 'He last,' he said [illegible] this other bill [illegible] no pay and he [illegible] name in the paper [illegible] I said [illegible] He [illegible] said I. 'Never [illegible] made up my mind [illegible] knows it really [illegible] as he can,' said [illegible] He kept on [illegible] yourself then [illegible] He said he'd [illegible] first [illegible] so while [illegible] I just sat [illegible] them that I'd never [illegible] from them—from [illegible] not a word did [illegible] I read him the [illegible] to snatch it off me [illegible] I should only [illegible] and a worse one [illegible] a bit, but it made [illegible] some lively times [illegible] I always told you [illegible]

[illegible] and you terror [illegible] hand end. He [illegible] he told me he'd [illegible] again. I said I [illegible] didn't browbeat [illegible] other. Only you [illegible] that if he says a [illegible] on at it. Never! I [illegible] about that time when [illegible] with a lot of trouble [illegible] on a motorbus. The [illegible] and I said [illegible] And he said 'No [illegible] promise to take this [illegible] on this pavement [illegible] Well, it didn't [illegible] a policeman told us that that service had been taken off. Would Ralph give up? No! He'd have stayed there till he dropped down dead. If I had to gone away and hired a private bus with the right number on. That's the sort [illegible] And I expect that that has helped to make [illegible] So now [illegible]'

'And there's nothing to be done?'

'Well, I did do something. I went quite half way to meet him. I said if they'd issue a writ to the man I'd pay up at once. Well, they [illegible] and a writ, though it may be [illegible] they did get some one to urge them to do. They haven't issued a writ and they won't. He'd give the eyes out of his head if they would. But [illegible] They know better. And he knows I was in the right right from the start.'

'And do you mean to say he hasn't spoken to you since?'

'Oh! He plays the game, Ralph does. He speaks to me when other people are there. But never when we're alone. Never. Funny tale, isn't it?'

'It strikes me as a terrific deal of a fuss over nothing at all,' Harriet returned.

'That's how it strikes me too,' Lady Furber agreed with an uncomfortable smile. 'But that's how things happen in married life. It's the principle, my girl! It's a question whether I'm going to be able to call my soul my own. O not! I know all Ralph's good points as well as anybody. I think there's no one like him—perhaps it's a good thing there isn't.'

She smiled again the uncomfortable smile. 'But my end has to be kept up as well as his.'

'Jewelry, I suppose,' said Harriet.

'Jewelry! What jewelry? Oh, you mean the bill. No. It wasn't jewelry—it was frocks. Just frocks.'

Harriet rose up from the sofa.

'What firm?' she cried.

'Lallers,' said Lady Furber. 'What are you laughing at, Harry?'

Harriet was indeed laughing.

Roulette

When Harriet returned to the waiting car Luke was fidgeting about on the pavement, with one eye on his watch and the other on its large competitor, the Casino clock; they both showed 10 minutes to 12. He did not see her at first and she had time to observe a grave dissatisfaction in his mood. But the moment he caught sight of her a transfiguration occurred in the demeanor of the exasperated youth. She saw heaven in his rapturous glance. Mr. Sutherland with all his chivalry and passion had never been able to look at her like that. Nor had the glance of Mr. Sutherland, with all her liking for him, ever affected her as she was then affected. She thought how wonderful it was that Luke and herself could have such a magical influence the one upon the other. Only a few evenings earlier and he had been naught to her but a timid little boyish secretary who could not say boo to a goose. And now—

She opened her mouth.

'Let's give the old club a miss and run up to La Turbie and look at the sea and the hills from there,' she might have said. She wanted to say it; she was on the very verge of saying it. But as she was a woman who knew that she was loved she did not say it. Instead she said to herself: 'It's only a minute to the club. If I get into that car he'll be kissing me again and I shan't have the nerve to stop him and it wouldn't be good for him because he'd be getting [illegible] it all over [illegible].'

Hence she put on a negligent, smiling and decently calm demeanor and addressed him:

'I was fearfully hot in the hotel. I think I'll sit by the driver. I couldn't bear being inside. Do you mind?'

Whereupon the Hon. Luke fell straight out of heaven into the devil's clutches.

'That won't do,' he said grimly.

She pretended not to notice the savagery of his tone.

'Won't it?' she smiled. 'Then let's walk down.'

And she moved forward and then waited while Luke gave an instruction to the chauffeur. For Luke's practical purposes he might just as well have been by the driver and she within the car as beside her, and she by his side in the [illegible] seat. Still Luke considered that the distance between the hotel and the club was horribly short. Moreover he had the illusion that they covered it in two seconds—in no time at all. No sooner did they start than they arrived.

And Harriet said to herself: 'How cruel I am! How exquisite he is when he pouts.'

At the club doors she had another narrow escape of suggesting a drive to La Turbie. They entered the club. The attendants recognized in them frequenters of the club. They ascended the stairs.

At first sight the chastely decorated inner salons (intentionally so different in style from the gaming saloons of the Casino, whose ceilings are supported by throngs of small, purely clad cupids of gold) seemed strangely deserted. Harriet looked to the right where baccarat (played with Roman profuseness by Greeks and by one a judge of His Brittanic Majesty's supreme court of judicature, the aunt of a British cabinet minister, a British Labor M. P. said to be studying the vice of the [illegible] and the editor of an American religious weekly) the gamblers were limited to a mere handful of nonentities. Certainly neither Lord Furber nor Mr. Septimus Sutherland was there.

In the left, at the roulette tables, a few British and American subjects were admirably collaborating to maintain the atmosphere of ennui which is the chief and most essential characteristic of the cushioned glittering dens where congregate the wealthiest victors in the struggle for life.

Within the bar half a dozen French countesses and several London marriageable maidens of high social distinction (with attendant swains) were gloomily smoking and imbibing all the colors of the spectrum.

Then from round the corner Harriet and the Hon. Luke heard a sudden loud murmurous hum of Anglo-Saxon voices and hurried toward the enheartening sound. Five-sixths of the nightly company of the club were seething about the four sides of a roulette table! An exceedingly odd spectacle to the initiated, for in the International Sporting club roulette is held to be the pastime of neophytes and cowards and quite unworthy of the general attention. Baccarat alone commands the respect of the truly enlightened.

If I Were A Man

I WOULDN'T insist on a girl's being [illegible] up every minute of time. If she stopped talking for [illegible] end I wouldn't ask, 'What the matter? Are you tired?' If she forgot to smile for a minute I wouldn't inquire plaintively, 'Are you angry? Have I done something to offend you?'

A girl can't be the personification of perpetual motion all the time. After all she's [illegible] the human machine [illegible] finally. Also she [illegible] I'd give her credit [illegible] and not keep prodding [illegible] foolish questions. [illegible] sit out a dance [illegible] her as unnatural [illegible] pep. Perhaps she [illegible] the conversation. If [illegible] me to a car and didn't [illegible] a mile I wouldn't [illegible] bored or sulky. Perhaps [illegible] enjoying the scenery [illegible] merely restful—and [illegible] to a rest once in [illegible]

If I Were A Girl

I'D THINK of a man's comfort sometimes instead of concentrating on my own. When I went to the movies with the boy friend I wouldn't insist upon sitting in the last row to save myself the bother of removing my hat unless I was sure he preferred the last row too. After all a fellow might be near-sighted and what good is the last row going to do him.

Or if the boy friend and I decided to spend a quiet evening at home I wouldn't insist upon regulating the temperature to suit myself. I'd ask him if he found the room cold before I turned on the radiator at full blast and I'd inquire whether it was warm before I opened the windows wide and let in a gust of wind.

If we were going out to dinner I'd think of his stomach as well as my own and I wouldn't insist upon going to a Chinese restaurant if the thought of Chinese food made him ill.

In all relationships there ought to be a give and take but when it comes to boy friends it seems to me that the girls do all the taking.

Jubilee's Pardner

* * *

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Saturday and it was still cold when I let Jubilee down so when I got the fires going and had milked the cows my hands and feet felt like clubs so I asted my mother if the rest of the bunch couldn't come in the kitchen whilst I fed my face and she said of course they might. Young's and Feeble and Maggie the girl that got fascinated on her leg so it wouldn't show on her were already in because a girl never waits to ast if they can go anywhere. I bet if our whole bunch was to die tomorrow and hike out for heaven us boys would get there first because boys are faster than girls but while we were gathered around Saint Peter telling him what good boys we had been and hoping he would let us in the girls would come up and open the pearly gates and go breezing through without saying anything to anyone. They would if Saint Peter was anything like me. Then I bet I know where Saint Peter would tell some of the boys to go. I don't like to think about that. I am going to go to Sunday school tomorrow.

When we had all been around to the hospital and took a squint at the flag it made our eyes full of tears to look up at it the way the wind was blowing. But I acted as yell master and when we had wound ourselves all up we doubled up and hollered 'Podgeen! Podgeen! Oh you Podgeen!' I hope he heard us. If he did he knows what is coming to him when he gets out of there. A nurse opened the door and shook her fist at us and smiled and we skun out [illegible] got our skates and slass and went down to the pond and it was certainly froze hard. When we had slid and skated for a while someone had a bright idea and we all skun out for our roller skates that we got for [illegible] and a [illegible] and then we raced back to get to the pond. I sat down and got my skates on first and jumped up and started out and I done the suddenest and most [illegible] to split I ever [illegible] in all my born days. I guess that whoever makes boys' pants must know boys pretty well because my pants were [illegible] but I didn't feel like I would [illegible] the same again. Just we all found that roller skates ain't so good on ice and we [illegible] them off and put them in a pile [illegible] and making a slide and someone hollered to me and I looked around and two kids were standing by our rollers and when I went for them one grabbed a pair and then skun out. I chased them about a mile and then they stopped [illegible] they were going to fight it out but they seen I kept coming so they dropped the skates and lit out. It was a good thing for them—or for me.

It may be because he lacks ginger that many a fellow is looking for a snap.

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affection

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mystery Deepens as No Trace Is Found of Missing Prince

I BENT [illegible] where Noel's hand pointed and agreed [illegible] his theory that here was [illegible] of the car which had taken Prince [illegible] whether [illegible] of [illegible] been made upon a [illegible] There were two well defined [illegible] marks [illegible] where Noel and I had dined and [illegible] other [illegible] Noel walked [illegible] for a few feet [illegible] tracks [illegible] around and [illegible] back [illegible]

'The [illegible] says,' he said. '[illegible] car [illegible] and [illegible] suddenly and skidded a bit. Then it turned around and came back.'

'Can you see the traces of any other car besides yours?' I asked. 'Fresh tracks, I mean.'

[illegible] answered [illegible] of the waiter's [illegible] that [illegible] had been [illegible] to the [illegible] before [illegible]

[illegible]

'We must [illegible]' [illegible] must also [illegible] telephone.

It [illegible] one of the waiters said and there was [illegible] which most all restaurant people feel.

No [illegible] for I felt that Lillian and Harry Underwood should be informed of this affair before anything else was done. Fresh in my mind were the details of the plot involving Princess Olina which Harry Underwood had frustrated almost at the cost of his life. Prince Georges was a member of a royal family, in all probability the future King of [illegible]. The search for him would be in the hands of the Government secret service with which Lillian was still connected though not actively, and the police [illegible] them.

The man gave a sigh of relief. 'That's better, ma'am,' he said. 'Was there anybody you'd like me to telephone for you? I could run back and do it.'

'Thank you, but I must get to the telephone more quickly than that,' I rejoined. 'Noel, [illegible] the flashlight and [illegible] the tracks of that car? Then have the road watched until I can [illegible] keep [illegible] want the man [illegible]'

There [illegible]

I [illegible] Noel [illegible] if there [illegible] that [illegible] the restaurant [illegible] Mary.

'I want to go with Noel,' Mary said rebelliously. 'He shouldn't be all alone [illegible] on this road.'

There was in her voice the same note of fear which had been there when she had discovered that Prince Georges was missing from the car. I hoped that Noel recognized it as I put my hand upon her arm [illegible] defiant [illegible] and heard [illegible] quick protest.

'Oh, [illegible] Mary. You mustn't. You're [illegible]'

'Noel is right, Mary,' I said firmly. 'You must go into the car with me. There is no danger for [illegible] and you ought [illegible] standing here.'

'How do you know there's no danger?' [illegible] But [illegible] nevertheless and with the waiters again clinging to the running boards I drove back to the restaurant and telephoned Lillian, being careful to let no hint slip of what had happened for fear of possible listeners in.

'Will you meet us at the corner of Montauk Highway and that road which leads down to the Ash[illegible] Inn?' I queried. 'We're starting now, so please [illegible] as quickly as you can. Bring an extra sweater with you. I'm chill.'

I heard Lillian catch her breath over the telephone for the last two sentences were code signals which we occasionally used in our secret service work. They meant 'Possible danger. Come armed.' But her voice was nonchalant as she replied:

'I'll just do that little thing. But it serves you right for not taking your sweater. What is it, Harry? Wait a second, Madge.'

She turned away from the receiver and I heard the tones, but not the words of a hurried colloquy. Then she came back to me.

'Harry says he'll bring his own special new sweater for you,' she laughed. 'He says it has a new inner lining and he says until he gets there you're to wrap that fool thin coat of yours around your throat and hold it tight until we get there.'

Her voice was high pitched, laughing, and any eavesdropper would have received only the impression of the casual talk in which friends so often indulge. But I thrilled to the knowledge that hidden in the [illegible] message was the [illegible] Harry Underwood had [illegible] conversation concerning our [illegible] that we were to hold everything until he joined us.

[illegible] could he have known so quickly of the attack upon Prince Georges?

Any man is apt to take water when he finds himself between the devil and the deep sea.

26 Measures Enacted in House and Senate Make Up Week's Legislative Work

Auto Drivers' License Bill, Acted Upon in Senate, One of Most Important on Program at Columbus, Several Proposals Go to Cooper for Approval or Veto

By C H HADDOX
Marion Star Staff Writer

COLUMBUS March 2—Ohio legislators passed 26 measures, including 17 bills in the house and nine in the senate during the three days they were in session this week. The house defeated four bills. Two new measures were introduced in the senate.

The senate and house met Monday night, Tuesday afternoon and Thursday afternoon. No session was held Wednesday because of the funeral services and burial of the late Senator Harry M Carpenter at Steubenville.

Among the more important bills acted upon by the senate this week are the Nickels bill licensing motor vehicle drivers, Gillen bill recodifying the criminal procedure code, Nickels bill requiring motorists to pay an extra fee of $1 for special auto license numbers. All were sent to the house.

Bank Bill Passed

Of the bills passing the house the major ones are the Cramer bill revising the state banking code and requiring the state banking department to examine state and private banks twice annually. These bills went to the senate.

The bills defeated in the house were Store bill [illegible] Frater bill [illegible] Brown bill requiring [illegible] the Miele bill [illegible] bill [illegible]

No bill introduced in the senate are by Senator Frank C [illegible] authorizing the state treasurer to appoint a deputy state treasurer and by Senator David B [illegible] Fulton county, to regulate the settlement of personal injury claims and the use of evidence in personal injury cases.

No new bills were introduced in the house.

Bills Go to Governor

Of the bills passing the senate this week two which go to Governor Cooper for his approving signature or veto are the Van [illegible] bill to permit courts to fill vacancies on boards of township trustees and the Bing bill permitting the Cedar Point Bridge Co to build a bridge across Sandusky bay. Of the measures passing the house one, the Johnson bill to permit recovery of compensation from the county dog tax fund for poultry killed by dogs, goes to the governor.

The senate and house adopted a joint resolution expressing sorrow over the death of Senator Carpenter and providing for official representation of the legislature at his funeral.

The house made the Miele bill providing indefinite tenure for teachers a special order for [illegible] p m March [illegible] when the measure is to be called up on a question of passage.

No action was taken on the following resolutions offered in the house late Thursday: the Keifer resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution as to permit counties and school districts to share in the distribution of income and inheritance taxes and the Cave resolution proposing that Speaker O C Gray appoint a committee of two Republican and two Democratic house members to investigate various current reports affecting former state

OBITUARY

Elizabeth Ann Neimeyer whose maiden name was Waters was born on January 13th 1870 in Prospect twp this county. She was the daughter of John and Matilda Karts Waters. She was a resident of Marion county all her life residing first at Prospect and then in the city of Marion.

On Nov 28th 1891 she was united in holy wedlock with Mr Martin O Neimeyer. This union God blessed with one child who also with the husband survives the wife and mother.

About 19 years ago Mrs Neimeyer decided to join a class of adults which was then being prepared to be received into the Lutheran church. On July 3rd 1910 she was confirmed and also baptized and thus became a member of Emmanuel's Lutheran church. During these 19 years she has always been a faithful church member and died firm in the faith which she confessed 19 years ago. Her faith was also adorned by a godly and deeply consecrated life.

She was always willing to work for the church taking an active part in the work of the Ladies society and the Ladies Sewing circle.

Friday afternoon Feb 22 while attending the funeral of a relative at Caledonia she was stricken with apoplexy. She quickly lapsed into unconsciousness from which she did not recover. On Monday morning at 5:30 she entered into life. Her earthly pilgrimage lasted 59 years, one month and 12 days.

She leaves to mourn over her untimely departure her deeply bereaved husband, Mr Martin O Neimeyer, one son Gerald Neimeyer, two sisters Mrs Emma Butler of Prospect and Mrs Ella Detrick of Detroit, three brothers Grant of Woodland O, Daniel of Prospect and William of Springfield. Besides these many other more distant relatives and a host of loving and sympathizing friends.

Mrs Neimeyer was a friend to everybody. We have a friend left on earth and our friend here in Heaven.

The UNANIMOUS Verdict

That Cheri Cod, the tasteless preparation of Cod Livers, is an exceptional strength building Tonic is the unanimous verdict of thousands of Marion people who are using and recommending it daily.

Today, 15 short months from the time it was offered to the public, it stands alone as the most talked of tonic and builder for those who need good rich blood, improved appetite and restful sleep, all so necessary to regain strength and energy.

Due to its system strengthening qualities many users of Cheri Cod escaped the customary colds and flu which were so prevalent this winter, and for those who were not so fortunate, it has been a splendid aid to quick recovery, stubborn coughs and colds giving way before it.

"Old-Fashioned" Weather Features February Report

Nature is reverting back to her old-fashioned habits. At least, that is the way it looks after a glance at the official February weather chart here.

During the past month, residents of Marion have had the privileges of seeing snow on the ground every day until the last three days in the month, when the weather was so mild that the snow vanished. Although only five and one-half inches of snow fell during the entire month, part of the white blanketing still lingered from the month before.

4 Below Is Low Mark

The thermometer showed a range of temperature from four degrees below zero on the twentieth, to a point 57 degrees above zero, on the twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth. The average temperature during the entire month was a few degrees below freezing.

February was similar to the preceding month with the record degree of heat only one point lower, and with about five inches less of snow and two inches less of rain. Only three inches of rain fell during the month.

The wind was primarily from the west, as it was in January, causing the thermometer to drop occasionally to several points below zero, and then as the wind switched around to the south and east, the mercury went to a point sometimes as high as 40 and 45 points above zero.

Break in the cold wave came Feb. 27, when the mercury rose to 57 degrees above zero.

Similar to last month, there were only four perfectly clear days out of all 28 days, with half of the remaining 24 partly cloudy, and the other half when the sun was not visible all day long.

Star Witness in Buckley Trial Reaches Civil Service Age Limit

COLUMBUS, March 2—John F. Eckhart, star witness for the government in the prosecution of former State Treasurer Bert B. Buckley on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act, was a private citizen today.

Eckhart's service as acting assistant prohibition administrator of the Ohio-Indiana district ended yesterday. He was retired from the service because of the age limit, fixed by the Federal Civil Service commission.

Gustave G. Simons, former deputy prohibition administrator at Cleveland, took over Eckhart's office today as acting assistant administrator of the district.

Barberton Youth Found Dazed Near Home Told of Assault

BARBERTON, March 2—Leroy Kimble, 17, who, late Wednesday night, was found lying dazed in front of his residence at 190 Kenmore av., was still in the unconscious state into which he lapsed after aid appeared.

The youth, when passersby discovered him, said incoherently that he had been assaulted by two robbers, who compelled him to enter their automobile and then threw him out.

KEEPERS ATTACKED

By Indian Antelope in Toledo Zoo; Two Are In Hospital

TOLEDO, March 2—Two keepers in the Toledo zoo were attacked by a Nilgai, Indian antelope, here and were injured slightly. They were rescued by Arthur Brown, zoo mechanic, who rushed into the inclosure and struck the animal on the head with a hammer. While the antelope was in a daze, the injured men were dragged outside.

Learned Banking Business as Girl To Aid Her Father

(This is the sixth and last in a series descriptive of the girlhood life of Lou Henry, now Mrs. Herbert C. Hoover, as told by men and women who were her playmates in the little Quaker town of Whittier, Cal., more than 40 years ago.)

* * *

WHITTIER, Cal., March 2—Perhaps he did not realize it when he married her, perhaps he has never had the fact consciously called to his attention since, but Herbert C. Hoover, who will become President of the United States on March 4, is the husband of a former feminine banker.

This little fact was disclosed in a page of memoirs of the girlhood of Mrs. Lou Henry Hoover by Gen. Madison T. Owens, member of the little colony of Quaker men and women that founded this city.

"Banking in Whittier in 1885 was a one-man business," Gen. Owens recalled. "Charles Henry, Lou Henry's father, was the one man and the one bank. He served therein as cashier, bookkeeper, teller and general financial consultant.

Town Makes Strides

"But the little town grew amazingly. The mustard weed was cleared away, crops began to be worth something and the prices of lots boomed skyward. Mr. Henry couldn't handle all his banking business, and his daughter Lou stepped right into the breach. In a short time she could perform the fourfold banking duties as capably as her father, save, perhaps that she might not be able to mete out the same sound financial advice.

"Lou Henry used to go to the bank after school, usually carrying a bag of peppermint lozenges she had bought at Starbuck's drugstore. The bank was known by the firm name of Tillinghast, Henry and Company. I never saw Tillinghast but as I remember, he was an Iowan who put up much of the capital to launch the enterprise. Who the 'Company' was I never knew. The firm's old safe, in which we early residents kept our money and valuable papers, is now in the storeroom of the First National Bank, built on the site of the original Henry bank. The safe still bears on its door the old firm's name."

Gen. Owens then described how the mistress-to-be of the White House as a little girl helped her father total the day's banking business and cast the balances of the Quaker town's only financial institution.

"Lou was a good student in every school subject," he pointed out, "but especially proficient in mathematics, which doubtless accounted for the aptitude she displayed in the bank. She also was keenly interested in geology, and when the bank was closed she and her father used to take long walks in the Puente hills, shooting rabbits and collecting specimens for the girl's geology collection.

"I recall also how Lou Henry, despite all her school interests and her work at the bank, found time to found a reading club of 11 girls who met once a week at her home.

"The Henrys left Whittier in 1891, I think, soon after Lou was graduated from the Bailey street school, and went to Monterey where Mr. Henry continued in the banking business. Lou went to the State teachers' college at San Jose and later to Stanford University, where Herbert C. Hoover was both a worker and a student."

The aged Quaker pioneer paused for a long time:

"It may be," he concluded, slowly, "that it is a far, far step from the modest little white house at 610 South Painter avenue where the Henrys lived here, to the great White House in Washington, but the kindly, helpful girlhood of Lou Henry was deserving of the later honor."

You Can't Wipe Out Facts

Hoovers have been sold for over twenty years. And all through that time we have watched other cleaners gain brief fame—and disappear, while The Hoover has gone steadily ahead.

The novelty of brief-lived cleaners can't wipe out the facts of The Hoover. No other cleaner removes as much dirt per minute as does The Hoover. No other cleaner has "Positive Agitation" to shake loose the embedded grit. And no other cleaner can take the place of The Hoover in your home!

Only $6.25 down; balance monthly; allowance for your old cleaner. Telephone for demonstration.

$38,000

Saved Motorists of Marion Last Year?

This station sold 891,258 gallons of gasoline and 22,517 gallons of lubricating oil in 1928.

At a conservative estimate this gasoline and oil would drive a medium automobile 18,000,000 miles or 720 times around the world.

At a savings of 3 cents a gallon on gasoline and 50 cents a gallon on lubricating oil this station saved motorists of Marion in 1928 about $38,000.

In addition to this savings we gave to our customers thousands of dollars worth of valuable premiums.

Marion motorists who patronized other stations benefited because of the price wars conducted in an attempt to drive this station out of business or force us to advance our price.

The owners of this station conceived a new idea of merchandising gasoline, direct from tank cars to consumer, eliminating the waste resulting from the old set up of bulk stations, tank wagons and numerous retail stations.

For the benefit of our good friends who have stood by us during the several price wars which have been waged to force this station out of business or force us to advance our price to that charged by other companies operating here and in other cities, we are submitting some facts to justify their confidence in us.

Including real estate this station has assets of over $46,000.

Total sales for 1928 amounted to $171,861.56.

Profit for 1928 after deductions for depreciation were $13,165. This shows 8% profit on sales or 30% on investment.

Assuming that we made a net profit on oil of 10 cents per gallon amounting to $2,250 it leaves a profit of $11,000 or 891,000 gallons of gasoline or about 1¼ cents per gallon.

In other words while we have saved Marion motorists 3 cents a gallon on gasoline and 50 cents a gallon on oil or a total of $38,000 we have made a profit $13,165 or 30% on our investment.

This saving of $38,000 no doubt more than paid the license fees on all the automobiles in Marion. Motorists are not being misled by recent cut in prices in Marion and are reasonably sure of what would happen were we to let others dictate to us and put our price up to that which the major companies are charging elsewhere, which they charged in Marion before this station opened and which no doubt they would charge were we forced out of business.

But please bear in mind that this station is dependent on Marion patronage and cannot enter into price wars depending on making up losses here through higher prices charged elsewhere.

We pledge ourselves to continue to give Marion motorists the benefit of all savings resulting from our new method of doing business and if Marion motorists will give us their continued support and an increased volume we will sell them their requirements of gasoline and lubricating oil on an even closer margin than we have in the past.

Financial Transactions Reach High Mark Examiner Reports

It cost nearly $1,000,000 to operate the city of Marion during 1928 according to George D[illegible], state examiner who has been in the city during the last few days preparing the city auditor's annual report. [illegible] continued his work yesterday afternoon.

The total expenditures for the year were $45,000 short of the million mark last year. The expenditures include expenses of operation, [illegible] city and special assessment bonds.

TRUSTEES AWARD CONTRACT FOR ROAD

Molloy & Seckel To Do Work in Big Island Township

Contract for constructing the Conley Thompson [illegible] in Big Island township was awarded by the township trustees after bids were opened yesterday. The contract was given Molloy & Seckel of Marion at a bid of $[illegible]. The estimated cost of the road was $7,618.78.

The road is approximately one and a half miles in length and will be of rolled stone construction. The contract calls for completion of the job by Sept 1. Work is to be started June 1.

This is the first road sale in the county this year. The board of county commissioners and the county surveyor have practically completed work of outlining the county road program for the summer.

Among those present were 114 members of Marion lodge, 18 visitors, [illegible] past masters of various lodges and four visiting masters of other lodges.

Inspection of the commandery was made by Frank M [illegible] of Zanesville, grand senior warden of the grand commandery of Ohio. A 6 o'clock dinner was served to the 107 persons present. The order of the temple was conferred.

MT. GILEAD MAYOR IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Morrow County Official Dies from Stroke of Apoplexy

MT GILEAD March 2—Mayor S S Barre died of apoplexy shortly after 10 o'clock last night at his home here. His death came suddenly and without any apparent warning as he had been in his usual health yesterday and last night. Death came just a few seconds after he had asked Mrs Barre to get him a drink of water.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home, the Rev J C Smith of the M E church officiating, assisted by the Rev David Hamill of the Presbyterian church. Interment will be in Bloomfield cemetery.

Mayor Barre was born in Green county Dec [illegible] 1850 and was the son of John and Mary Barre. Oct 1 1876 he was married to Miss Emma E Lockhaven, a native of Morrow county. The family resided in Sparta where Mr Barre was engaged as a furniture dealer and funeral director. He served as a member of the schoolboard at Sparta for more than 14 years and also served as mayor and postmaster of the village. He was chosen mayor of Mt Gilead [illegible] year ago. The family moved here about six years ago.

Surviving with the widow are two children, Mrs Mary Emerson of Cleveland and Harry H Barre of Mt Vernon, and three grandchildren.

Clifford McFarland, president of the city council, is acting mayor.

SILVER FOX SALES REACH HIGH MARK

New Records Made in Recent Transactions on N Y Markets

With the silver fox farm industry growing in Marion county and surrounding territory, unusual interest is shown here in recent developments in the fox pelt market showing a brisk demand for the product.

Published reports of recent sales on the New York market state that all previous records for quantity sold, total realized and buyer attendance were broken in the trading and selling that occupied a three-day period during the first part of last month.

During the three-day session bidding was active and the record offering of 10,[illegible] pelts brought prices ranging to $850 for a choice half silver skin. Other top prices were full silvers $800, three-quarter silvers $640, one-quarter silvers $185, slightly silvers $100, black $100. Full silver pelts averaged 1[illegible] per cent above the comparative prices of the January 1928 sale. They and other bright skins were in most demand.

Buying was active in both foreign and American accounts with a high percentage of the finest silvers bought by the American trade. Total sales were $1,400,000. A shipment of 7,000 pelts from a farm in Wisconsin set a new record for a single consignment to an auction.

Marion's "O. Henry" Exits From Pen With Typewriter Which Earned His Freedom

Former Prisoner Who Won Success as Story Writer Goes to New York To Arrange for Continuance of Career as Author, Will Live in Ohio

A battered typewriter and a [illegible] release were the only possessions John R Murphy took with him when he left the Ohio penitentiary yesterday.

Neither the typewriter nor the suit [illegible] much actual value. But to Murphy the typewriter had a value that cannot be estimated in dollars. With it he battered open the doors of the penitentiary and regained the freedom that has been denied him for [illegible] and a half years.

Murphy entered the prison Sept [illegible] 192[illegible] a burglar and deserter from the army. When he walked out yesterday he was an author of no little [illegible] and has been hailed as the second O Henry of the Ohio penitentiary.

Deposited in a Columbus bank is a sum of about $7,000 which the prisoner earned by writing war stories for a magazine of national circulation. His ability was developed while a prisoner behind the gray walls that [illegible] O Henry [illegible] literary [illegible] at the [illegible] which has him [illegible] story writer.

Goes to New York

Shortly after leaving the penitentiary Murphy left for New York to confer with publishers concerning [illegible] which he is soon to publish. Murphy expects to live in Ohio, probably in Columbus, when he settles down to earn a living by writing.

Burglary of the former J H Rawlings & Son store in Marion on night of Sept 1 192[illegible] resulted in a penitentiary sentence of not less than 10 years for Murphy. He had served nearly half the term when his sentence was commuted by Gov Vic Donahey. Murphy was sentenced by Former Common Pleas Judge Grant E Mouser. He was prosecuted by Fred W Warner, then prosecuting attorney.

Parole of the prisoner was recommended by Warden P E Thomas to the board of clemency when Murphy's writing began to earn him sufficient for a living. The parole was also recommended by Warner and Mouser.

Long Trail of Crime

An investigation conducted by the local police department after Murphy was arrested in the act of burglarizing the Rawlings store revealed that the prisoner had a trail of crime reaching to Los Angeles Cal.

Several years ago he was arrested in the California city on a forgery charge. He was given a 10-year sentence but escaped before he could be taken to prison. He was shortly apprehended and an additional two years was added to his sentence. The sentence was commuted in a short time however and Murphy was again free.

Records in the California case show that Murphy was a deserter from the army.

After being released from the California prison Murphy apparently moved eastward. He was arrested in Toledo in February, 1921 but was later released according to the police investigation. A month later he was arrested in Kenton on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property. He was given a sentence of one to seven years but was paroled in June.

After a lapse of two years Murphy bobbed up here in the Rawlings robbery. He was indicted by the grand jury Sept 26 192[illegible]. Two days later he pleaded guilty in common pleas court and was sentenced. He was taken to the penitentiary the same day.

COURT COLLECTIONS $1,995 IN FEBRUARY

High Mark Established in Business of City Tribunal

A new record for February was established by the municipal court last month according to court attaches.

Despite the shortness of the month a total of 67 criminal cases were before Judge William R Martin although some of these were not disposed of and were continued until March. A total of 7 civil cases were also in court during the 28-day month.

A total of $1,99[illegible] was collected from both criminal and civil cases during the month. Of this amount $1,281.63 was collected from criminal cases and $409.15 from civil cases for the city's share of the receipts.

The state was paid $151.[illegible] from the case and the county received $170.

BLAST HALTS FIRE

Ohio's Smouldering Crater Dynamited Homes, School Saved

NEW STRAITSVILLE March 2—Dynamiting had today saved from possible destruction a school and several homes on the outskirts of this village.

The buildings had been menaced by the 4[illegible]-year-old mine fire which broke through the surface a few days ago. The smouldering crater was dynamited shut by miners. Through it flames leaped many feet into the air and lethal gas had poured forth.

The dynamiting was accomplished without any damage to any of the buildings.

CONDITION IMPROVED

Mary Lou Parratt, eight months old daughter of Mr and Mrs C W Parratt, S Sheridan rd, who has been seriously ill of pneumonia and ear trouble, is reported slowly improving.

Court Case Continued and Dog Placed On Probation

W[illegible], a Marion citizen, must appear again in municipal court to answer charges of allowing a dog to disturb the peace and quietude of a community depends upon the good behavior of the dog during the next three weeks.

And thereby hangs a tale.

Berrill Dykes of Cass av works at nights and sleeps in the daytime. His neighbor Pearl Clark has a dog that sleeps at nights and plays in the daytime.

The Clark dog has become too playful in the last few days and Dykes has become too sleepy the last few nights. The reason?

The Clark dog is just a puppy and likes to make lots of whoopee when he plays. The whoopee or barks keeps Dykes awake.

So Dykes filed an affidavit against Clark in municipal court for allowing his dog to disturb the peace. The case was heard yesterday afternoon before Judge William R Martin.

I don't like to make this complaint, Dykes told the judge, but I couldn't sleep. I'll keep the dog in the house and see that he doesn't bark any more, countered Clark.

Case continued for three weeks, said the judge, and we'll find out if the dog is going to be good. If he isn't, and he pointed to Clark, we'll have to have you in here again.

GETS AUTOGRAPH FROM LINDEBRGH

Five Letters Finally Get Response for Marion Collector

Earl N Hale, general secretary of the Marion Y M C A, has received an autograph of Col Charles A Lindbergh. Hale who has been collecting autographs since he [illegible] wrote five letters before he finally got the coveted signature. He wrote the first letter over two months ago and since that time has written four others.

The autograph was sent to Hale by Major McCracken, assistant secretary of the Department of [illegible] and head of the aeronautics division.

Col Lindbergh, who is a personal friend of Major McCracken, dropped in to see him a few weeks ago and the major told him of the great number of requests he had received for the colonel's autograph. Lindbergh promptly responded by taking a number of small blank cards and signing the name Charles Lindbergh to each of them. Contrary to what one would expect from a person as careful and methodical as the colonel, the signature is cramped in style and was apparently written in a great hurry.

Autographs of Colonel Lindbergh are valuable. He does not send out any personally but they must be procured through agencies such as the one which served Hale. The local Y secretary stated today that he thinks he may get another of Lindbergh's autographs through one of the other persons to whom he has written.

PYTHIAN PROGRAM IS PRESENTED HERE

Lima and Canby Lodges Take Part in Entertainment at No 402 Hall

Approximately 170 persons were present at the open house meeting held last night by Marion Lodge No 402, Knights of Pythias, in its lodge rooms. The open house program was preceded by conferring of the page rank by Canby lodge on a class of candidates from No 402. This was open to members only. About ten candidates received the page rank.

The open house program was featured by a play presented by Lima lodge. This play depicted the scene when President Lincoln gave to representatives of the Pythian order the charter for founding of the order. Other parts of Pythian lodge history were given in the three-act play.

Canby lodge also exemplified the lesson of friendship during the latter part of the program.

Judge Charles E Justice of Marion, grand chancellor-elect of the grand lodge, was present but declined to talk.

NAMES "THIEF"

Neglect Worst Offender in Marion Preacher Says

The biggest thief in Marion was disclosed in the sermon on that subject delivered by the Rev A I Zichman, evangelist at Calvary Evangelical church last night.

BUILDING PROGRAM PLANNED FOR YEAR

New Homes Scheduled for Construction in Southwest Marion

64 BUILT IN 1928

Junior High School Building To Be Added Advantage in Near Future

In 1928 sixty four homes were built in Oakland heights and vicinity which includes Henry and South Davids st.

The fact that as many as 64 new homes were built in any one locality in Marion in a year is interesting enough in itself but it is more so when Marionites realize that only 160 homes were built in the entire city in 1928.

In plain words then 40 per cent of the homes built in Marion in 1928 were built in or in the locality of Oakland Heights. These facts indicate a very decided trend in the movement of people to southwest Marion or to Oakland Heights—in other words people have confidence in the great future of Oakland Heights for they are willing to buy and build homes there and bring up their families in Oakland Heights.

Buying a home is one of the big steps the average family makes in a lifetime often it is the biggest investment that they make with their surplus funds. Therefore most families give buying of a home a great deal of consideration and real thought. If these facts are true and most people will agree that they are then why do so many people prefer to live in Oakland Heights.

Meets All Requirements

The fundamental reasons are obvious as Oakland Heights seems to combine all that is best for the happy contented home owner. First of all when he has a home in Oakland Heights he knows that his property is well located that it is in a district that is growing and where property is growing in value rapidly. Secondly Oakland Heights has all the conveniences of a modern city and yet it has the quiet beauty and peacefulness of a modern suburb. Home owners are afforded every means of convenience and comfort light water gas storm and sanitary sewers, sidewalks good streets telephone and fast transportation.

Oakland Heights you will find by investigation is a complete little community by itself. It has its own churches stores theater and schools all of which make for better finer civic spirit and and cooperation among its homeowners.

Oakland Heights in the past few years has had a most remarkable and steady growth due to the foresight and vision of W. T. Jones who is the founder and builder of Oakland Heights.

Unusual Achievement

Because the development of this subdivision took place in Marion residents here probably fail to measure the achievement adequately. Its importance and magnitude are fully appreciated however by outsiders whose attention has been drawn to Mr Jones activities in Marion.

This viewpoint was strikingly expressed in an article appearing in a recent issue of Modern Construction a magazine designated as the lumber forum of the Central States published at Lima. The article written by Mrs Marion [illegible] following her visit to a lumber dealers exposition held in Marion last year appeared under title "The Fruits of Vision" and was sub-titled as "The Story of a man whose thoughts for others brought profit as well as pleasure."

An excerpt of the article reads as follows:

"There is a type of man who is outstanding in American business life today. He is the man with vision enough to think not only of his own fees and gain and happiness but also of the welfare and gain of the people about him. He realizes that he profits most who serveth best.

"We might take the old quotation on Vision and say it something like this: The business man of today who has not the vision to see tomorrow and see it in cooperation with his group, his city his industry his nation will perish.

Looked Into Future

It is not one's privilege to meet men with vision every day and when I met Mr William T. Jones realtor and builder of Marion Ohio a short time ago I knew I had met such a man. [illegible] I could see with my own eyes proof that he had looked well into the future at the very beginning of his career in the building world which began over [illegible] years ago.

It is said he is in business for profit. What man is not? But Mr Jones has accomplished some things which have brought him more profit in happiness and satisfaction than in cash. This is fact not fiction. No man will plant with his own hands hundreds of trees who is not interested in something beyond cash returns and this is what Mr Jones has done.

It was during a talk about better building practices and the importance of using good materials in home-building that Mr Jones told me of the thing which has brought him the greatest happiness and satisfaction of anything he has ever done. That thing is the planting of hundreds of elm trees along the streets of his city where he has always built homes. He has studied out the proper spacing of the trees so that when full grown they will form an harmonious row. What a wonderful idea for other builders to utilize."

Site for New School

Oakland Heights has been chosen by the board of education of this city as the ideal spot for a new Junior High school. The property on which this school will be built has been purchased and a beautiful new building will be erected and completed within a year from this summer, a school which will accommodate [illegible] pupils and which will be a pride and joy to Marion people.

Very extensive plans have been made for new building and improvements in Oakland Heights this year. Sanitary and storm sewers will be installed and put in operation many new homes will be built. Everything looks bright for the future of Oakland Heights.

Go out and visit Oakland Heights—see what it has to offer you attend the beautiful little Oakland de luxe theater which is very appropriately named see the splendid little thriving group of stores which include the newly opened store of the Isaly Dairy Co—then you'll decide to live in Oakland Heights.

SCHOOL FACILITIES OF HIGHEST TYPE

The Oakland Heights School building is one of the newest and most modern in the city and provides the best facilities possible for education of the boys and girls of the neighborhood. Educational work will be advanced still further with construction of a new junior high building included in the local school board's program.

CITY BUS SERVICE SHOWS EFFICIENCY

Passes Through First Winter Test Without Hitch in Schedule

Marion's new bus service operated by the Marion Rapid Transit Inc has passed through its first test of winter season service and proved exceptionally efficient during unfavorable weather conditions.

At no time during the winter which brought long periods of weather creating serious transportation problems were the city busses kept from operating on schedule time.

The schedule as given in a folder issued by the company is as follows:

Center and Davids St line—Leave Garfield Park at 5:20 a m and every 10 minutes till 5:50 a m then every 15 minutes till 11 a m then every 10 minutes till 7:00 p m then every 15 minutes till 11:30 p m via East Center to Court House West Center to Davids St south on Davids to Bellefontaine Ave and return.

Prospects Good in Steel Industry Latest Reports Show

CLEVELAND March [illegible]—Iron Trade Review today says:

Steel production is at the threshold of what is normally the best 60 days of the year. Though January and February have been record breaking there are no indications that this has been at the expense of March and April tonnage. Requirements of the automotive industry and the railroads which are the chief support of the current market promise to be sustained well into spring. On such important lines as steel bars sheets and strip deliveries have drawn further away in the past week.

With concluding specifications against first quarter contracts for finished products scheduled to be in producers hands by March 15 this condition apparently will be aggravated. Further advances in prices make current contracts the more attractive. Semi finished steel continues the bottle-neck of production especially in the Chicago Pittsburgh and Youngstown districts. Some finishing capacity lies idle for want of sheet bars and billets.

Some steel makers having contracted substantially all of their semi finished output are in the open market seeking material to apply on contracts.

RAILWAY EARNINGS ESTABLISH RECORD

Largest Monthly Increase in History Reported for January

The greatest monthly increase in earnings reported by the railroads was shown in figures of operations by the first 37 railroads to report for January. Their net income in January was $41,921,000 or 12.2 per cent more than the $29,173,000 reported for January 1928. Should this record be maintained earnings this year will surpass the abnormal record earnings of 1926. Comparatively light snow falls made it possible for most roads except in some parts of the northwest to keep operating expenses down. The net income in January compared with a net of $52,013,000 in December.

Gross revenues of the first 37 roads to report totaled $261,094,000 against $246,451,000 in January 1928 an increase of 7.1 per cent. In December their gross receipts were $271,010,000.

The Pennsylvania reported an increase of $2,576,000 in January gross compared with January 1928 and an increase of $1,531,000 in net operating income. The Baltimore & Ohio the Santa Fe the Delaware & Hudson the Buffalo Rochester & Pittsburgh the Virginian the Boston & Maine and the Missouri Kansas Texas were other lines which shared in the upward trend.

DELAWARE, March 2—A Red and [illegible] fighting for a position [illegible] the Class A basketball [illegible] of the central Ohio [illegible] held at Edwards gym [illegible] Wesleyan university here, [illegible] Harding colors on top of a [illegible] fallen teams by defeating Bexley [illegible] night, 19 to 16.

[illegible] its opening game of [illegible] Harding this afternoon [illegible] with Aquinas. The [illegible] is to enter the semi-finals [illegible] the winner of the Columbus [illegible] which will be [illegible] Harding's game to-

Play Ordinary Game

It was only through light that the [illegible] team won. The basketball [illegible] was not the least bit spec[illegible]. It was of the ordinary class [illegible] Harding will have to show better [illegible] over the fast Aquinas ag[illegible] this afternoon.

Harding jumped into the lead as the game opened and at the quarter [illegible] Marion held the large end of a 5 to 2 count. At the half Harding was out in front 10 to 8 only to see the count knotted at three quarter mark at 12 all.

The playing of Punch Walker was the high light of the game. He put out his best offensive game of the season scoring seven points from three field goals and a foul. Castner and Gillis each scored three points while Roush and Walker were looping one goal [illegible]. McAninch, who did not start the game, [illegible] for one free throw.

Two Score 10

[illegible] and Davidson scored 10 of Bexley's points from one bucket and three free throws each. Davis scored two field goals. Bexley scored half of its points through fouls.

The game started with Castner scoring on Woodward's foul. Gillis scored one point when Davidson got a little rough. The score was tied when Dicky counted on Gillis' foul. Bexley countered with two buckets, and Bexley took time out. Garrett scored a free throw and on a double foul both Garrett and Woodward failed to count. Walker's personal was missed by Davis and the quarter ended with Borland scoring a free throw.

Fouls on Garrett and Keller were made by Davidson and Dicky as the second quarter opened. Castner scored a bucket and McAninch replaced Keller at the running guard post for Harding. Harding then took time out. Davis and Garrett split it out evenly, each getting a bucket. Kilbourne went into the game at this point for Bexley with Dicke going to the bench. Roush entered the game in place of Garrett and as the half ended Gillis scored one point on Kilbourne's foul.

Woodward opened the third period with a free throw which Davidson followed with a two-pointer. Walker scored a foul goal and Dicky split even on fouls by McAninch and Gillis. Lockwood replaced Gillis at center and scored a foul goal. Dicky tied up the score at 12 all with a bucket. Roush missed a foul and both teams made substitutions, Borland for Woodward and Tuttle for Lockwood.

Go Into Lead

Lockwood returned to the game in the final period. Bexley went into the lead when Davis scored. Garrett was substituted for Roush and Gillis for Lockwood. Walker tied the count with a bucket. Harding was out in the clear again as Gillis scored a free throw. Dicky passed up a free shot as Garrett went out on fouls. Roush missed two free throws but recovered with a bucket. Castner scored a foul and McAninch caged 50 per cent of his two free throws off Borland. Dicky missed on Castner's free throw and a technical foul called on Harding was made by Davidson to end the scoring for the game.

In the other three Class A events played last night, no exceptionally strong teams were unearthed. Delaware played a listless game, beating Westerville 14 to 9 after scoring 12 points in the first half while holding the losers to a free throw.

Columbus West failed to break its losing streak of 15 straight games by succumbing to East's drive, 28 to 20. The best team of the Class A group playing last night was eliminated as Lancaster was beaten by Mt. Vernon, 22 to 21. Shelby Sensation of District Meet

WINS SECOND ROUND FROM FOSTORIA BY SCORE OF 32 TO 22

Bucyrus, N. C. O. Champ, on Short End of Fast Tilt with Sandusky

(Special to The Star)

SANDUSKY, March 2—Shelby high school cagers, who did anything but set the world on fire in the North Central Ohio league the past season, are proving to be the sensation of the district basketball tourney being played here. Last night in the second round games, Shelby defeated Fostoria, picked by the wise guys to go places by a score of 32 to 22. It was a thrilling game that the Shelby quint played and one that caused them to be established as favorites to go to the finals tonight.

Shelby meets Tiffin Columbian this afternoon in one of the semi-final battles and if the team wins that, it will meet the winner of the Mansfield-Sandusky game for the district championship tonight. Shreffler, who figured in the Shelby victory over Norwalk, ran wild to score eight field goals in the game last night. Mellick came through with ten points.

Bucyrus, champion of the N. C. O. fought a three-minute overtime battle with Sandusky and finished on the short end of a 21-to-17 count. It was the fastest game of the night's program and was tied 17-all at the end of the fourth quarter. Sandusky, which finished fourth in the final "Little Big Seven League" standing, displayed a flashing offense, goals by Bock and Parker winning the game in the overtime period. Lerch was hot for the Red-men with 10 points out of the total of 17.

Galion and Mansfield, both members of the N. C. O., battled in the closing game last night with Mansfield winning 40 to 24. Mansfield will play Sandusky this afternoon in the semis. Lucky, center, and Sharp, guard, led the victors attack with 13 and 12 points respectively. Mansfield finished in last place in the N. C. O. this past season.

BADGERS WILL REST AS 8 OTHERS PLAY

Michigan Meets Ohio State Tonight and Purdue Tackles Illini

CHICAGO, March 2—Wisconsin, leading the Big Ten basketball race with one full game over its nearest competitor, will watch from the sidelines tonight as eight other quintets throw themselves back into the heated fry.

Indiana will match the Badgers in a Saturday night of rest.

Michigan trails the pace-making Badgers by one game, and Purdue is the same margin behind the Wolves. These two fives, Michigan and Purdue, are the lone survivors with any chance to head off Coach Meanwell's boys.

Michigan tackles Ohio State at Columbus tonight, while Purdue goes up against the in-and-out Illini at Champaign. The other two games, Chicago at Minnesota and Northwestern at Iowa, will "cut little ice," however they may go.

BATTLE OF ANDYS

Cohen Has Call Now for Second Base Job

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 2—Cohen has the call over Reese at present in the "Battle of the Andys" for the second base job on the New York Giants. Cohen played with the regulars in yesterday's practice game, which the scrubs won by a score of 5 to 2.

In addition to Cohen and Reese, those who took their first workout yesterday were Outfielder Fred Leach, Catcher Bob O'Farrell, and two rookies, Crawford and Fullis.

JACK HENDRICKS WILL CARRY 7 FIELDERS

ORLANDO, Fla., March 2—Manager Jack Hendricks of the Cincinnati Reds has announced that he will carry six outfielders throughout the season, and seven infielders.

Lutzke, former Cleveland Indian, is one of the most likely-looking infielders, and is expected to push Dressen hard for the keystone position.

Veteran Pitcher Keeps Pace With Youngsters

Jack Scott Regarded as Regular on McGraw's Baseballers

LIKE the "old gal" who insists on playing around with the younger set, just to show how young she is, Jack Scott, Phillie cast-off, is cavorting around the training lot with the liveliest of the rookies.

That name cast-off has a vicious sound, but Jack, at age 35, only one year ago was sent to the minors—Toledo, to be exact—by the Phillies, as all through. He hadn't been there long before the Yankees came along with a dazzling offer for the veteran. It was ordained, however, that he return to the big show under John McGraw through one of those arrangements that exists between the Giants and Toledo.

He had served two previous terms with the Giants, doing a nice job of starting and relieving. Weighing 205 and standing six-one, Jack has always known how and why to take care of his physical being and hard training isn't work for him. Scotty spends his winters raising hogs and reports ready to hurl 'em as fast as some pitchers who have a couple of weeks' work under their belts.

Perhaps his fast one has lost some of its hop and his curve is nothing to boast about. He still has control, courage and knowledge of batters. That's a lot more than many pitchers can boast of and ought to come in handy to the Giants.

Anyhow, you've got to take your hat off to the boy. He's getting away with it and more than keeping to the pace of the youngster in spite of his graying hairs.

Walsh Reveals Inside of Sharkey-Stribling Bout; Jack's Money the Reason

Former Heavyweight Had Put Up $100,000 for Rickard in One of Those Gentlemen's Agreements Without Benefit of Paper; Only Way To Get It Back Was Battle

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Marion Star Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 2—Now that it is all over but the terrific shouting, which seems to have been done somewhat incognito, and the miracle of Miami's $105,000 harvest has been enacted, the real story behind the Sharkey-Stribling necking party on the beach may be told today without the embarrassment it otherwise might have occasioned. It isn't a story of how Sharkey won because he was absolutely determined to "e—merge" triumphant, or why so many dollars lost all self-control at the sight of a box office window; it is the story of why the fight ever was held at all.

It was held because John Dempsey didn't have a shred of paper to show for the $100,000 he had advanced as his part of the "nut" for the late Tex Rickard's enterprises at Miami Beach. Rickard and Dempsey were like that.

They never needed even a handshake to confirm any bargain they made, which was very laudable. They needed none this last time, which might have been unfortunate. For Rickard died almost overnight and Dempsey suddenly discovered that he owned neither the $100,000 nor legal proof that he ever had owned it. Rickard's death might have nullified the plans that had been made but that would have got Dempsey nowhere in nothing flat, establishing a new track record.

Had To Go On

He couldn't withdraw something he didn't have. He, therefore, had to go forward.

The Sharkey-Stribling party is history now and the credit for its amazing total of gross receipts largely is attributed to Dempsey. It should be. It isn't likely that there ever would have been a fight at all, if Dempsey hadn't involved himself beyond recall in its promotion. The death of Rickard alone might have been sufficient excuse to call off negotiations that hadn't been concluded.

There were no formal contracts made or at least no evidence has been turned up to that effect in the meantime. The fight itself didn't look the part of a money maker and Sharkey's $100,000 guarantee seemed all out of focus with the picture as a whole, unless the master brush of Rickard was there to paint it.

It was with these considerations in mind that the Garden corporation dallied for some days with the idea that the entire matter might well be allowed to go by default. It knew that Rickard suspected he might have to take a loss on the fight but that he meant to promote it in order to bring the crowds into town so that the other Rickard-Dempsey investments might prosper.

And So—

Therefore, knowing this, the Garden outfit saw no abiding reason why it should obligate itself because of these outside investments, particularly after Sharkey had reiterated his demand for $100,000 on the Saturday following Rickard's death.

It had sent Dempsey and Carey to Boston with $75,000 as its top figure. It meant to go no higher. Two things persuaded it to do so, first, Dempsey and Carey offered to write off the extra $25,000 personally and it felt that, if they were prepared to go that far, it could do no less. Second, it feared the effect a cancellation of the fight might have on the Garden holdings—that it would look as though the Garden couldn't go on without Rickard.

But there was another influence behind both of these influences and that was Dempsey himself. He sold Carey on the proposition, leaving nothing to be done but for Carey to sell Rickard Hoyt, the unseen power behind the throne at the Garden. There would have been no fight if Hoyt had said "no" over the long distance telephone. But he didn't and there was.

ELECTRICS, OSGOOD BATTLE FOR LEAD

Industrial Loop Championship To Be Decided by Game Monday Night

Next Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Star auditorium the championship of the Marion Industrial league will be settled when the Osgood quintet, at present leading the loop by one game, tackles the second place C., D. & M. five. The first time that these two teams met, the Osgood team took home the bacon while in the second round clash the Electrics were way ahead of the rivals.

Indications point to one of the fastest battles seen on the Industrial league schedule this year with little or no money being wagered on the outcome. If the Electrics win the game it will tie these two for the league lead while a victory for the Osgood team would just about cinch things. Two more rounds of games remain to be played after the clashes Monday night. Osgood must play Power and the Steam Shovel while C., D. & M. will tackle the Business College and Power-Hocking.

The schedule Monday night will open at 7 o'clock with Business College playing the Steam Shovel five while in the final fray of the night, Wilson-Bohannon will attempt to stop the Power, which shouldn't be such a difficult thing to do. The first game will be a little harder to pick because the Shovel stock has gone down in the last few games.

In the feature clash of the series next Monday, Osgood will probably bank on Conwell and Penry, star forwards, to carry on most of the offensive work while the C., D. & M. quintet will rely on the eye of Happy Applezell to bring home victory. Happy is the gent who caused the Osgood team so much embarrassment in their last clash. He will start at center against Fred Tschanen. The guards for the Electrics will be Cram and the other position open, against Lashey and Yazel. Fetter and Geissler are the Electrics probable starters at the forward berths.

HALF OF YANKEES ARE NOW AT TRAINING CAMP

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2—More than half of the regulars of the second squad of the New York Yankees, ordered to report at training camp next Monday, are already here. Pitcher George Pipgras and Outfielder Earl Combs are the latest regulars to yield to the call of the diamond.

LANCASTER TEAM DEFEATED IN LONG SESSION, 16 TO 17

New Holland Falls Before Morrow County Quintet, 25 to 23

DELAWARE, March 2—Outstanding among the Class B basketball games played in the Friday afternoon round of the central round of the central district tournament here was Marysville's victory over Lancaster St. Mary's, 17 to 16, in an overtime contest.

Cardington, the only other team entered in the tournament from this section, defended its laurels won in Morrow county last week by trimming New Holland, 25 to 23 in a fast session.

In the Class B group London, Watkins, Monroe township of Madison and Pickaway counties, Hyatts, Plain City, Grandview, Marion St. Mary's, Millersport, Upper Arlington, Cardington, Marysville, Pickerington, Kirkersville, Granville and Salt Creek won out in the first round. These winners clash this morning and the survivors of the second round meet tonight for the right to enter the semi-finals next week.

Of the 16 surviving teams, London and Marysville look the strongest. Marion St. Mary's, Hyatts and Grandview have the best chances of upsetting the dope.

Marysville's victory over the Lancaster five came after the most hectic game of the tournament. The two teams were tied at four all at the first quarter and when the half ended the Union county cagers were out in front, 10 to 8. Lancaster came back in the final half to knot the count at 16 all. In the overtime period, Simpson won the game with his free throw. Lancaster scored all its points from field goals while five successful free throws helped Marysville to a hard earned victory.

With McClenathan scoring eight points, Cardington had no trouble in defeating New Holland, 25 to 23. New Holland made a desperate spurt in the last few minutes to overcome Cardington's early lead.

Cardington takes on Upper Arlington while Marysville tangles with Monroe township of Pickaway county today.

The lineups of the Cardington and Marysville games follow:

NAVY AND NOTRE DAME AT BALTIMORE OCT. 12

BALTIMORE, March 2—Navy and Notre Dame will meet on the gridiron in Baltimore stadium on Oct. 12. It was announced here today. This is the first game of the 1020 Navy schedule to be announced.

CENTRAL WINS OVER MANSFIELD CAGERS IN OVERTIME GAME

John Simpson Five Takes Defeat from Local Team, 28-27

John Simpson junior high school of Mansfield and Central Junior of Marion battled through four quarters of play and one overtime period on the Mansfield court last night before the locals could slip through to win 28-27.

Central, after leading 14 to 2 at the end of the first half, collapsed like a folding bed and allowed the Mansfield quint to score 25 points while they had to be content with 14 additional counters. It was the first defeat of the season for the Mansfield team. They had previously sunk Central here and defeated Vernon Heights on their own floor.

Price, Central center, was the scoring ace for the Marionites, sinking six field goals and one free throw while Seymour, Mansfield colored star, went tough with five two-pointers and one foul. It was his scoring in the final minutes that enabled the home team to tie up the score and send it into an overtime period.

Flashy Work

Central displayed the best brand of basketball they have shown this season when they ran wild in the first quarter to lead 10 to 0. The Central team was passing almost perfect and was not missing very many shots. In the second period they kept up the same brand of ball to outscore the John Simpson team, four to two.

The third quarter was more or less a repetition of the first half, although the Mansfield boys were sinking more of their shots and working through the Central defense a little more than they had done. Central, however, led at the end of the third quarter, 23 to 12.

Led by Seymour, the Mansfield quintet staged a sensational rally late in the final quarter and with one minute to play the score stood at 25 to 23 with the Marion five on the long end. Seymour tried a long shot in a desperate attempt to win the game and in it went as the whistle blew.

Pickerel, Central forward, started the scoring in the three-minute overtime period when he sank a charity throw. Seymour then dribbled through the Central defense for a bucket and Mansfield led by one point. As the game ended Lindsey, Central guard, stood on the center line and dropped the pill through the basket and it was all over.

The scores:

Central	G.	F.	Mansfield	G.	F.
Morgan, f ..	1	0	Zeykoff, f .	2	0

Week's Activity Shows Strong Position of Stock Market

BULLS' CONFIDENCE IS SEEN IN PRICES

Coolidge Mart Passes To Be Replaced by Hoover Market

COPPERS LEAD STOCKS

Prospects of 20 Cent Metal Within Week, Anaconda Gains 20 Points

BULLETIN

NEW YORK March 2—Wall Street's 'Inauguration' market ran into heavy profit taking and speculative selling in the short session of the market today and reactions were again in order in a number of the market leaders.

The copper stocks were pushed on the market in good volume in the first hour. At 117¾ Anaconda was down about 3 points for the period and 8 points from Friday's peak. Shrinkages of from 1 to 3 points were also recorded in Andes Copper, Kennecott and other high fliers in yesterday's [illegible] 000 000 share session. United States Steel sold below 189, a decline of 5 points from Friday's final period.

BY W S COLSINS
Marion Star Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 2—A week of brilliantly advancing industrial stock prices coupled with a trifling increase in brokers loans and a free flow of money to Wall Street in the face of heavy month end calling of loans by the New York banks furnished ample evidence of the strong position of the financial markets and continued confidence of the bulls in the stock market.

There was no disposition on the part of the bulls to defy the federal reserve board or to ignore its repeated warnings about the ballooning of speculative credit in the stock market. That much was plainly seen in the shaving down of the proportion of borrowed money in the purchase price of active stocks all over the board. But the stock market could not get away from the tremendously profitable condition of important branches of American industry as expressed in the earnings statements and the boosting of dividends of the well known copper, steel and railroad shares.

Coppers Above Others

Head and shoulders over every other section of the industrial list [illegible] this week were the coppers. The rise of copper metal to above 17 cents a pound with prospects of 20 cent metal within a week or two gives a tremendous boost to the earnings prospects of the American producers.

Within a month six of the best known copper companies have advanced their cash dividends in an era of the greatest prosperity ever known to the industry and the stocks of these and other companies have [illegible] skyward as investors and speculators have rushed in to buy their favorite shares. Anaconda's gain for the week was close to 20 points and new advances of 5 10 points were scored by other stocks in this group.

Ready for Hoover Market

This week winds up the Coolidge bull market easily the outstanding period of rising prices in the history of American industry. To all appearances Wall Street is now preparing for the Hoover market which while it may be more selective than its predecessor is quite likely to boost prices of many important groups of stocks to the highest prices ever known.

This will be in line with the steady increase in business and earnings capacity of industrial corporations and whole industries some of which have emerged from positions of red ink operations to unprecedented prosperity since 1921.

Fresh strawberries at 50 cents per quart was the main bargain in Marion markets this morning, to meet the housewives shopping for the Sunday menu. Along with the strawberries were other fresh fruits. However no change in price was noted in this department.

Vegetables meats and provisions also remained at an even keel for the Saturday rush. Spring chickens were the main inducement in the meat department. These youngsters were going at the same price as last week 50 cents a pound.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

CHICAGO March [illegible]—After an early dip yesterday the local wheat market continued its recovery from the recent sharp break. Short covering buying by local bulls and commission house demand advanced prices until they were checked by sales against privileges. Corn was higher throughout the day but met similar opposition and in the absence of broad demand the advance was stopped.

Wheat prices closed with net gains of [illegible]5@1 1-2c. Corn was 1@1 3 8c higher at the close oats were 1-4@5 8c up and rye was 3 4@[illegible]c higher.

Corn Shorts Cover

Lower prices in the early trade were due to weaker cables than due profit taking after the previous day's advance and the liberal early deliveries of 2 3 3,000 bu. However deliveries appeared to be well taken and this was later confirmed by no deliveries of only 115,000 bu. And while Liverpool closed unchanged to [illegible] up they reported a better demand from the continent.

With these early bearish factors offset and with an independently firm tone at Winnipeg and persistent strength in the local corn market shorts became nervous and covered.

A strengthening factor which received more attention yesterday is the growing belief that President elect Hoover may outline his farm relief program in his inaugural address Monday. This coupled with a renewal of rumors that the dark horse slated for the agricultural portfolio in the cabinet is Thomas D Campbell referred to as the world's greatest farmer tended to offset expectations that Monday's private estimates on farm stocks will prove bearish.

Meanwhile the present situation surrounding wheat remained without material change. Export demand continued limited. While sales of 1[illegible] 000 bu of durums to Italy were reported and some low grade Manitobas were worked directly from Winnipeg the latter were said to be at wide enough discounts to compare with sales when prices of their Ma[illegible] were $1 26 to $1 27.

Conditions Debatable

Crop conditions were still debatable. [illegible] weather is generally favorable [illegible] and growing weather must be awaited to determine whether damage will be above normal. Local cash wheat trade continued slow with reds again declining 2@3c in basis with hard and Spring grades called unchanged and buyers scarce. The unusual spread between March and May accounts undoubtedly for the excellent stoppage of deliveries and transference of hedges narrowed the discount from 5¼c to 3¼c.

Early deliveries of corn were about as expected at 1,340,000 bu and were well taken at the discount. Oats 15,000 bu were delivered on second notice. Some reports credited taking of the bulk of the deliveries by a house prominently identified with export trade. Cash corn was active and strong particularly for [illegible] grades [illegible] the [illegible] was not considered [illegible]

Deliveries of [illegible] were more than [illegible] deliveries were light at Toledo.

FINDLAY LOSES TO MARION CAGERS

Vernon Heights Outclasses Foe and Scores 21-8 Victory

Glenwood [illegible] high of Findlay was no match for the local Vernon Heights basketeers when the two teams clashed on the [illegible] team's floor last night with the Marion freshies finishing ahead 21 to 8. It was the final game for the Heighters before their annual series with Central Junior that will be started next Friday night on the Vernon floor.

Vernon showed its best passing game of the season against the Findlay five and the puzzling offense of the locals seemed to worry the home team all the way. Findlay could do little or nothing with the Vernon team's defense and was forced to take a great number of long heaves from the center of the floor.

No Trouble at All

On the other side Vernon had little trouble in solving the home team's defensive formations and romped through to score at will. Vernon led 15 to 0 at the half and then scored six points in the final two periods while holding the Findlay quintet to two counters.

Cottrel Vernon forward was the main thorn in the side of the losers scoring 10 points. Whipple D Gray Avery and Ward divided the scoring of the Findlay team between them.

Vernon eighth grade cagers lost the preliminary battle to the Findlay eighth grade by a score of 10 to 11. Stover led the winners with [illegible]0 points while Snyder and Caldwell were high for the losers with four points each.

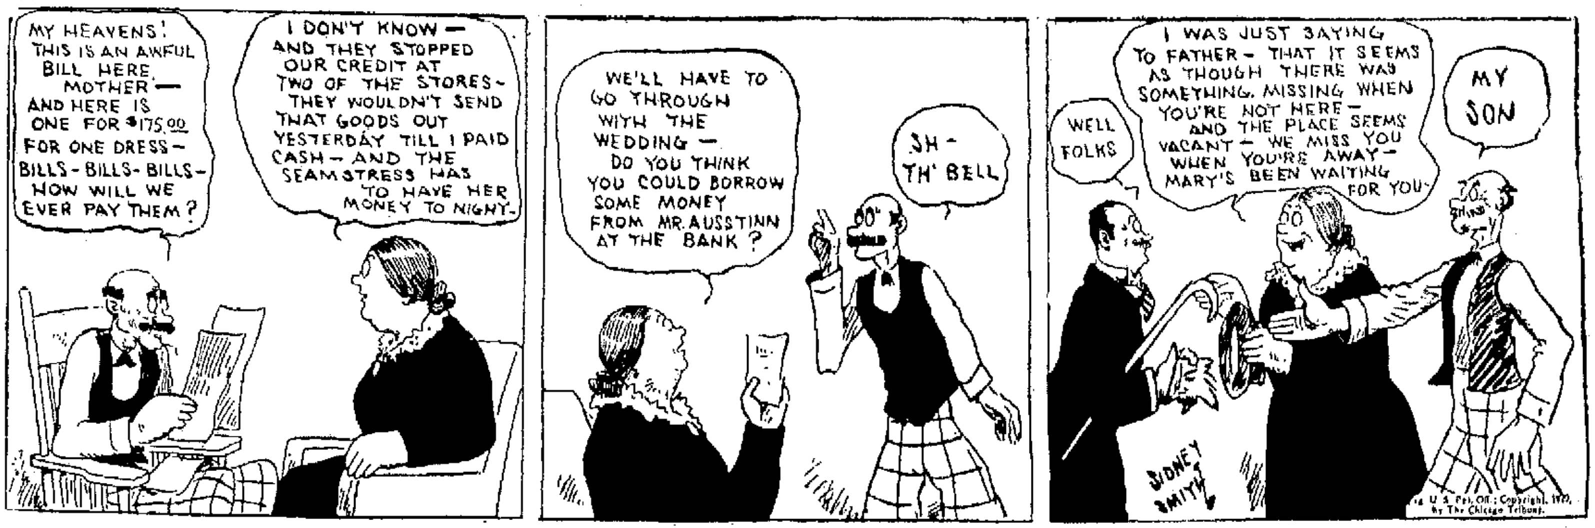
THE GUMPS

THIN ICE

BY SIDNEY SMITH



MY HEAVENS! THIS IS AN AWFUL BILL HERE, MOTHER—AND HERE IS ONE FOR $175.00 FOR ONE DRESS—BILLS—BILLS—BILLS—HOW WILL WE EVER PAY THEM?
I DON'T KNOW—AND THEY STOPPED OUR CREDIT AT TWO OF THE STORES—THEY WOULDN'T SEND THAT GOODS OUT YESTERDAY TILL I PAID CASH—AND THE SEAMSTRESS HAS TO HAVE HER MONEY TO NIGHT.
WE'LL HAVE TO GO THROUGH WITH THE WEDDING—DO YOU THINK YOU COULD BORROW SOME MONEY FROM MR. AUSSTINN AT THE BANK?
SH—TH' BELL
WELL FOLKS
I WAS JUST SAYING TO FATHER—THAT IT SEEMS AS THOUGH THERE WAS SOMETHING MISSING WHEN YOU'RE NOT HERE—AND THE PLACE SEEMS VACANT—WE MISS YOU WHEN YOU'RE AWAY—MARY'S BEEN WAITING FOR YOU—
MY SON

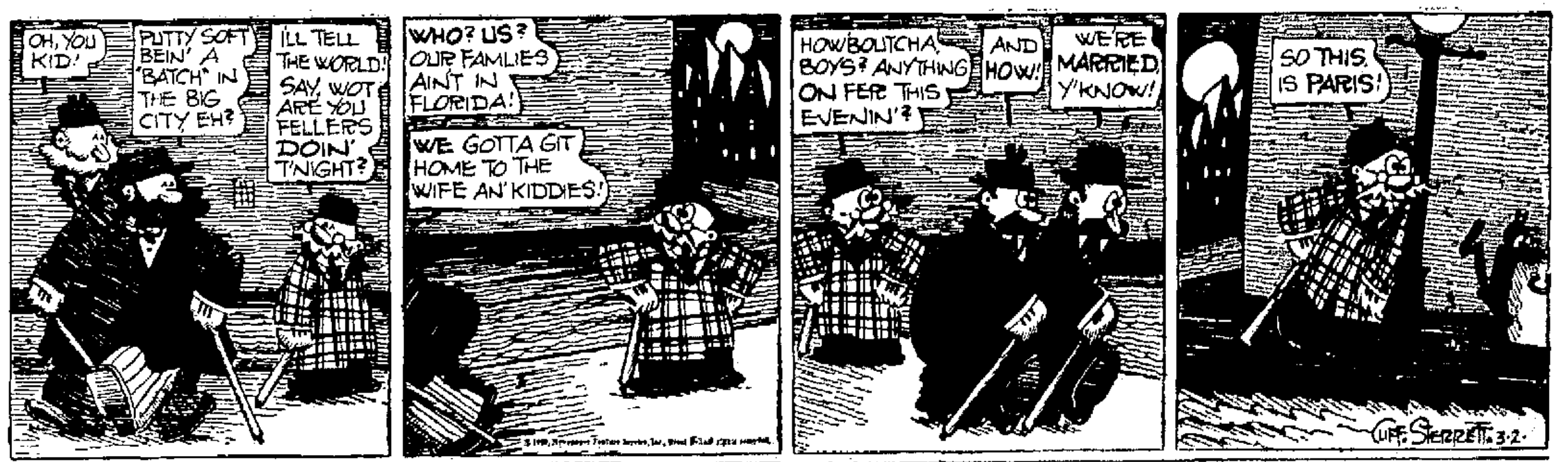
"SINGLE" BLISS

BY CLIFF STERRETT



OH, YOU KID!
PUTTY SOFT BEIN' A "BATCH" IN THE BIG CITY EH?
I'LL TELL THE WORLD! SAY, WOT ARE YOU FELLERS DOIN' T'NIGHT?
WHO? US? OUR FAMLIES AIN'T IN FLORIDA!
WE GOTTA GIT HOME TO THE WIFE AN' KIDDIES!
HOW BOUTCHA, BOYS? ANYTHING ON FER THIS EVENIN'?
AND HOW!
WE'RE MARRIED, Y'KNOW!
SO THIS IS PARIS!

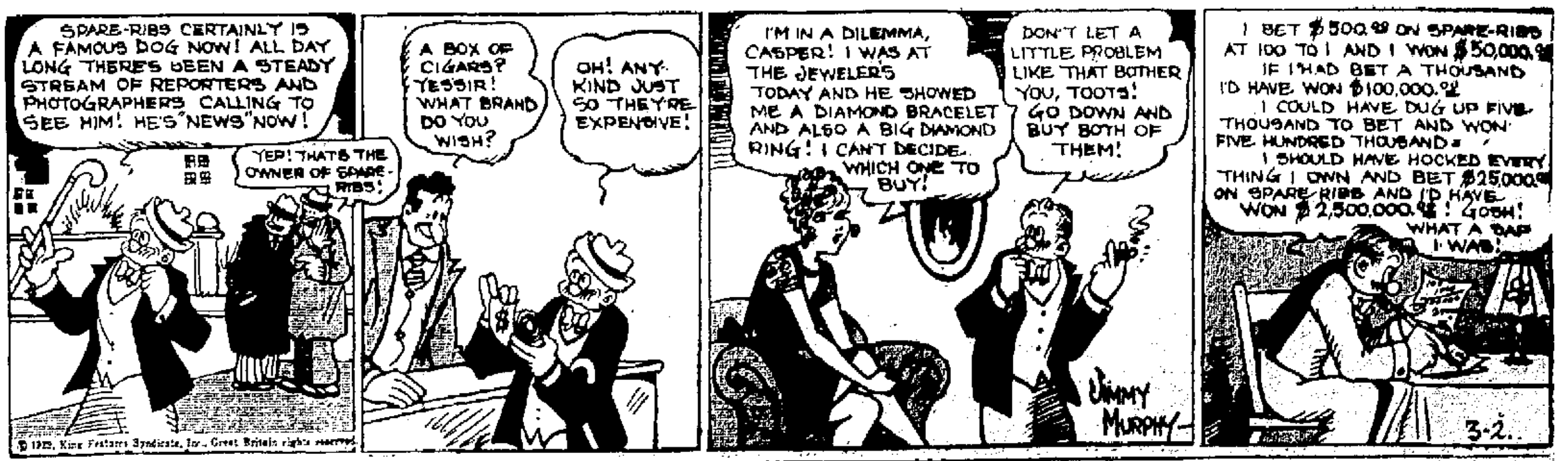
TOOTS AND CASPER

A SAP FOR FIGURES

BY JIMMY MURPHY



SPARE-RIBS CERTAINLY IS A FAMOUS DOG NOW! ALL DAY LONG THERE'S BEEN A STEADY STREAM OF REPORTERS AND PHOTOGRAPHERS CALLING TO SEE HIM! HE'S "NEWS" NOW!
YEP! THAT'S THE OWNER OF SPARE-RIBS!
A BOX OF CIGARS? YESSIR! WHAT BRAND DO YOU WISH?
OH! ANY KIND JUST SO THEY'RE EXPENSIVE!
I'M IN A DILEMMA, CASPER! I WAS AT THE JEWELER'S TODAY AND HE SHOWED ME A DIAMOND BRACELET AND ALSO A BIG DIAMOND RING! I CAN'T DECIDE WHICH ONE TO BUY!
DON'T LET A LITTLE PROBLEM LIKE THAT BOTHER YOU, TOOTS! GO DOWN AND BUY BOTH OF THEM!
I BET $500.00 ON SPARE-RIBS AT 100 TO 1 AND I WON $50,000.00 IF I HAD BET A THOUSAND I'D HAVE WON $100,000.00 I COULD HAVE DUG UP FIVE THOUSAND TO BET AND WON FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND— I SHOULD HAVE HOCKED EVERY THING I OWN AND BET $25,000.00 ON SPARE-RIBS AND I'D HAVE WON $2,500,000.00! GOSH! WHAT A SAP I WAS!

LOANS UP TO $500

These are the good old days we will be longing for a few years from now Let's enjoy them while we may

There is surely no need of denying yourself all the things that mean happiness even though your cash balance is low, when you can so easily borrow the money you need and pay it back as your income affords. Loans are confined to moderate amounts at The City Loan and payments are so small that it is practically impossible to go beyond your means

While The City Loan is strongly opposed to "overloading" or lending money where it is not really needed just for the sake of making a loan yet it gives special attention to the service of loaning to help folks enjoy a few more of the good things of life
